Crowning Of Pumpkin Show Queen Tops Thursday Menu

Selection of Pickaway County's most honored person—Miss Pumpkin Show—will be the highlight of Thursday's activities in Circleville.

Also booked for Thursday evening are a football game, a couple of baton-twirling contests, a free street dance, along with regular free acrobatic acts and band concerts.

Fourteen entrants, each representing one of this county's high schools, will be vying for the honor of being the queen of the Fall festival.

She will be named at 8:30 p. m. following judging at Scioto and Main streets platform.

The football game, a South Central Ohio League battle, will be played at 8 p. m. at Circleville high school athletic field between unbeaten Circleville and Wilmington.

Face-Saving Compromise On Berlin Issue Readied

PARIS, Oct. 21—A face-saving compromise formula for solution of the Berlin crisis was put into final form today and optimism mounted over possibility of a settlement.

Prepared under the direction of Juan A. Bramuglia, acting chairman of the UN Security Council which meets tomorrow to act upon the East-West blockade dispute, the formula avoids accusing Russia directly of threatening world peace.

Authoritative sources said that in place of such a charge, the resolution substitutes a solemn appeal for the safeguarding of peace and security.

The proposal embraces what a spokesman said was an "elastic" form of simultaneous lifting of the Soviet blockade and submission of the Berlin problem to the council of foreign ministers.

This "elastic" principle was conceived by Bramuglia, who is known to hope for a decision tomorrow or Saturday. He wants to leave for Italy on Monday to visit Genoa with his wife, who is on her way there from Madrid.

• • •

BRAMUGLIA is believed banking everything on achieving an abstention by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vishinsky instead of a Russian veto.

Thus the Berlin issue would be virtually transferred out of the Security Council's hands, taken off the UN agenda entirely and referred back to the Big Four.

As Bramuglia sees it, his proposal would permit simultaneous enactment of the measures demanded by the opposing sides.

But it will allow sufficient "elbow-room" for the blockade to die out, for the four military governors of Berlin to settle the currency dispute, and for the Big Four capitals to confer on a date and place for a Big Four council meeting.

Authoritative circles continue to advise against too great optimism on the simple grounds that the Kremlin is unpredictable and might always do a last-minute aboutface.

Thus tomorrow's resolution is said to be brief, carefully worded, and anything but preemptory in tone. The door thus will be left open for a peaceful solution.

Nude Couple Found In Tub

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 —The nude bodies of a young couple clasped in each others arms were found today in an overflowing bathtub in a near North Side Chicago hotel.

The victims were identified as George Reading of Detroit and Mrs. Jessie Beck of Davenport, Iowa.

Authorities said they believed the couple died in a suicide pact.

Hotel employes said the couple registered Oct. 15 as Mr. and Mrs. George Reading.

Mrs. Beck, a beautiful brunette, had filed a counter suit for divorce from her husband, Clarence. It was scheduled for hearing tomorrow.

4 Men Injured As Bulk Fuel Plant Blows

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — Four persons were injured early today when a Sun Oil Co. warehouse, valve house and two trucks exploded and burned just west of the Columbus city limits.

Warehouseman William Love, 23, of Columbus, and Truck Driver Layton Royse, 26, of Cincinnati, both were blown several feet by two terriffic blasts that set off what a fire chief said was one of the worst fires in Columbus history.

Firemen Paul Buchannan, 30, and Howard Specht, 24, members of seven companies rushed to the scene, received battery acid burns while playing a stream of water about the inside of the burning warehouse.

Hospital attendants said one of Buchannan's eyes was injured by the acid.

Fire Prevention Chief Harry W. Caldwell said the combination of gasoline and oil sent flames 100 feet into the air. He said the heat developed by the roaring flames ranked the fire among the worst to hit Columbus.

ROYSE SAID he pulled in from Cincinnati about 4:30 a. m. with a load of batteries and that he and Love were unloading his truck when two terrific explosions ripped the air, sending flames 100 feet into the sky.

Five Persons Die In Crash Of Airliner In Scotland

Ashville Lass, 6, Is Named Little Miss Pumpkin Show

The position of three non-resident judges Wednesday afternoon in selecting Little Miss Pumpkin Show of 1948 from among 67 of Pickaway County's most charming little ladies was not one to be envied.

But from the group emerged Sandy Bozman, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bozman of Ashville, a first grade student, to receive the coveted crown in this 42nd annual showing of the Pumpkin Show.

Second and third place choices and who will serve as attendants to the "Little Queen" were Phyllis McCoard, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art McCoard and Lucinda Rooney, 6, daughter of Paul Rooney and Mrs. Joseph Hay, all of Circleville.

By coincident, the 1947 Little Miss Pumpkin Show was an Ashville product. She was Willa Chaffin, daughter of Mrs. Marie Chaffin.

Willa performed the honors in awarding Sandy the 1948 crown.

Judging of the Little Miss Pumpkin Show event was conducted by three unidentified persons following a 45-minute procession of the candidates, bands from Amanda and Circleville high schools and a contingent of the U. S. Army.

Throngs jammed the parade route to cheer and applaud a favorite as she rode by to try for fame and glory in the junior class of the Pumpkin Show.

Riding in honored positions at the head of the parade was last year's winner, Miss Chaffin of Ashville, and the two runners-up, Mary Cochran and Carol Ann Johnson of Circleville.

Anxious parents and friends stood nervously as the family pride walked confidently across the platform to curtsy and smile to an applauding audience.

Handling introductions over the public address system was Dr. G. D. Phillips, program director. The parade was sponsored by the Youth Canteen.

Each of the participants in the parade was sponsored by various Pickaway County business firms, organizations, individuals and schools and with her best Sunday manners tried to bring home the honors.

Miss Bozman was entered as Miss Goodrich, Miss McCoard as Miss Rotary Club and Miss Rooney as Miss Sigma Phi Gamma Sorority.

The parade, colored by flag-bearing Boy Scouts, shoved off on Watt street and continued to Pinckney, to Scioto, to Main, to Court, to Franklin, to Pickaway, to Main, to Court and back to Watt street before disbanding.

Each of the little misses was a potential Miss America as she proudly rode on the front fender of her sponsor's automobile dis-

Columbus Bank Loses $2,000 To Bandit Trio

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21—Three armed bandits held up the First Federal Savings and Loan Co., on the Columbus west side today and escaped with approximately $2,000.

Six employes and a telephone repair man were in the bank when the three robbers entered and drew guns. The seven persons were herded into a kitchenette in the rear of the building.

H. G. Deems, secretary of the company, said he waited about five minutes before venturing from the room and that "the bandits were gone."

Police threw a cordon around the area but an hour later no trace of the bandits have been found. It was not known just how the trio made its escape.

Descriptions of the three men were broadcast by police but efforts to locate anyone who had seen the men were fruitless.

The bandits were described as being between 40 and 45 years old and were wearing brown or dark-colored hats. One man was described as having a red face, another as being of slim build and a third as wearing a dark brown overcoat.

The possibility was seen that the bandits might be the same trio who held up the Home Savings and Loan Association in Wapakoneta yesterday. Loot there holdup totaled $2,300.

Communist-Led Korean Revolt Being Smashed

SEOUL, Oct. 21 — President Syngman Rhee announced tonight that a Communist-led rebellion in American-occupied South Korea is being smashed after exacting hundreds of lives in two days of battles that are still raging.

The president said loyal government troops are closing traps around insurgent forces which tried unsuccessfully to advance to Seoul and link up with Communist groups inside the Korean capital.

Rhee disclosed that "many arrests" had been made in Seoul today of persons who presumably included secret Communist instigators of the revolutionary uprising.

Most of the Seoul ringleaders of the asserted plot to overthrow the Southern Korean republic and unite with Soviet-controlled North Korea were declared to have been rounded up.

Rhee told newsmen in Seoul the "final mopping up operations" against the rebel forces would require no more than four days. Earlier today, Home Minister T. Y. Yun had said the complete crushing of the revolt would take one to two weeks.

Jews Claim Grab Of Beersheba; Plan Cease-Fire

TEL AVIV, Oct. 21 — Israeli officials announced the rout of Egyptian forces in the Negev area of Southern Palestine today with the capture of biblical Beersheba.

This town, southernmost settlement of importance in the Holy Land, fell after heavy nightlong fighting that included hand-to-hand combat.

Substantial booty in the form of anti-aircraft artillery, transport and an enormous amount of ammunition was captured. Israeli troops are now firmly entrenched on all arteries of communication throughout the Negev desert.

At the same time, the Israeli government announced that is is ready to order a cease-fire immediately, as soon as it is in-

Pumpkin Palaver

Bob Brehmer Jr. Wednesday had the dubious honor of being the first cash customer of Pumpkinjack, Pumpkin Show's highly-publicized beverage.

Trophies for Saturday's free Western Horse Show are getting plenty of look-see. They are spotted in Fitzpatrick Printery window.

Wednesday's sales indicated the original order of 7,500 wooden nickels may be exhausted before the show ends. Dr. William Rickey, Kiwanian in charge, said nickels rigged for mailing were sold out by nightfall.

Pickaway County Children's Home booth probably is the best-equipped on the streets. Free gas and electric service has been donated by Dr. David Goldschmidt next door. Ed Jury's telephone company, which provided the lot, also piped in water and even installed a telephone.

Mayor Thurman I. Miller headed a delegation of Pumpkin Show and school officials who

Court Denies Wallace Appeal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—The U. S. Supreme Court today refused to order Illinois election officials to put the Wallace Progressive Party on the November ballot.

By a six to three decision, the high court upheld a similar ruling of a three-judge district court in Chicago.

The Progressives challenged a section of the Illinois election law which required that petitions nominating candidates of a new party must include at least 200 signers from at least 50 of the state's 102 counties.

The two women now are eligible to compete at 8 p. m. Saturday at Main and Scioto streets for honors of "grand champion" pumpkin pie baker of Pickaway County. A total of eight finalists will compete.

A total of 17 entries were listed in Wednesday's competition. Ten women entered the General Mills "Crustquick" show and seven others vied for top honors offered by the Pumpkin Show.

Clay Says Airlift To Keep Running

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 —Gen. Lucius Clay declared today that the Allied airlift into Berlin can be maintained as long as it is necessary for the United Nations to settle the blockade problem.

Clay made his statement at a news conference which he opened by eulogizing the Air Force men carrying out "operation Vittles."

The American commander in Germany also said that he did not believe the Russians would use force to interfere with the airlift now flying 5,000 tons of supplies daily and 3,000 daily in bad weather.

Clay, in Washington for a 28-hour visit, will fly back to Germany tonight after addressing the Alfred E. Smith memorial dinner in New York as guest of Francis Cardinal Spellman.

3 Survive As Plane Burns Up

9 Americans Among Victims

PRESTWICK, Oct. 21—A New York-bound Dutch airliner crashed in flames today in Scotland, taking the lives of 37 of 40 persons aboard, including nine Americans.

The transatlantic plane of the Royal Dutch Airlines nosed into the ground after accidentally hitting a high tension wire while attempting a landing at Prestwick International Airport in bad weather.

Thirty-five of the 40 passengers and crew members aboard were killed outright.

One American woman among the original five survivors and the airliner hostess died later in hospitals.

The America woman was Mrs. Matilda Rohrs, who according to the passenger list was from Pompton Falls, N. J.

• • •

A TITLED passenger among the dead was Austrian Prince Alfred von Hohenlohe. His American destination was given as Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The Constellation plane, afire and with broken landing gear, plunged to the ground a mile from the village of Tarbolton, eight miles east of Prestwick airport.

The plane, which was coming in from Amsterdam, Holland, on the trip to New York, was damaged when it hit a high tension wire while approaching Prestwick airport under condtiions of

1,326 Pieces Pumpkin Pie Sold In Hour

Youth Canteen Booth on West Main street was swamped Wednesday night as Pumpkin Show goers attacked for their "nickel piece of pie."

In the space of a single hour, workers in the booth sold out all 166 pies on hand, a total of 1,328 slices.

But the Wednesday sales were only a drop in the proverbial bucket, since another 6,672 cuts of nickel pie will be for sale before week's end.

A total of 1,000 pies is to be sold during Pumpkin Show week, all baked in the Ed Wallace bakery.

Wallace, who has offered service of the bakery for the past two years, finds minor complications in the setup, since he is too busy baking the Canteen pies to bake any for his own sale.

• • •

WALLACE gave housewives a valuable tip on preparing pies Thursday—that is if they expect a well-filled guest list.

"Take a dab of canned pumpkin (70 gallons to be exact)" says the baker "Add a pinch of sugar (310 pounds), mix with flour (400 pounds), add a few eggs (960), stir in a trickle of milk (only 80 gallons), add a pinch of table salt (10 pounds), and then get the crust in flaky shape with a spoonful of lard (95 pounds of it). Then just slip it into the oven and bake. See how simple it is?"

Ashville Lass, 6, Is Named Little Miss Pumpkin Show

The position of three non-resident judges Wednesday afternoon in selecting Little Miss Pumpkin Show of 1948 from among 67 of Pickaway County's most charming little ladies was not one to be envied.

But from the group emerged Sandy Bozman, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bozman of Ashville, a first grade student, to receive the coveted crown in this 42nd annual showing of the Pumpkin Show.

Second and third place choices and who will serve as attendants to the "Little Queen" were Phyllis McCoard, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art McCoard and Lucinda Rooney, 6, daughter of Paul Rooney and Mrs. Joseph Hay, all of Circleville.

By coincident, the 1947 Little Miss Pumpkin Show was an Ashville product. She was Willa Chaffin, daughter of Mrs. Marie Chaffin.

Willa performed the honors in awarding Sandy the 1948 crown.

Judging of the Little Miss Pumpkin Show event was conducted by three unidentified persons following a 45-minute procession of the candidates, bands from Amanda and Circleville high schools and a contingent of the U. S. Army.

Throngs jammed the parade route to cheer and applaud a favorite as she rode by to try for fame and glory in the junior class of the Pumpkin Show.

Riding in honored positions at the head of the parade was last year's winner, Miss Chaffin of Ashville, and the two runners-up, Mary Cochran and Carol Ann Johnson of Circleville.

Anxious parents and friends stood nervously as the family pride walked confidently across the platform to curtsy and smile to an applauding audience.

Handling introductions over the public address system was Dr. G. D. Phillips, program director. The parade was sponsored by the Youth Canteen.

Each of the participants in the parade was sponsored by various Pickaway County business firms, organizations, individuals and schools and with her best Sunday manners tried to bring home the honors.

Miss Bozman was entered as Miss Goodrich, Miss McCoard as Miss Rotary Club and Miss Rooney as Miss Sigma Phi Gamma Sorority.

The parade, colored by flag-bearing Boy Scouts, shoved off on Watt street and continued to Pinckney, to Scioto, to Main, to Court, to Franklin, to Pickaway, to Main, to Court and back to Watt street before disbanding.

Each of the little misses was a potential Miss America as she proudly rode on the front fender of her sponsor's automobile dis-

Communist-Led Korean Revolt Being Smashed

SEOUL, Oct. 21 — President Syngman Rhee announced tonight that a Communist-led rebellion in American-occupied South Korea is being smashed after exacting hundreds of lives in two days of battles that are still raging.

The president said loyal government troops are closing traps around insurgent forces which tried unsuccessfully to advance to Seoul and link up with Communist groups inside the Korean capital.

Rhee disclosed that "many arrests" had been made in Seoul today of persons who presumably included secret Communist instigators of the revolutionary uprising.

Most of the Seoul ringleaders of the asserted plot to overthrow the Southern Korean republic and unite with Soviet-controlled North Korea were declared to have been rounded up.

Rhee told newsmen in Seoul the "final mopping up operations" against the rebel forces would require no more than four days. Earlier today, Home Minister T. Y. Yun had said the complete crushing of the revolt would take one to two weeks.

Columbus Bank Loses $2,000 To Bandit Trio

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21—Three armed bandits held up the First Federal Savings and Loan Co., on the Columbus west side today and escaped with approximately $2,000.

Six employes and a telephone repair man were in the bank when the three robbers entered and drew guns. The seven persons were herded into a kitchenette in the rear of the building.

H. G. Deems, secretary of the company, said he waited about five minutes before venturing from the room and that "the bandits were gone."

Police threw a cordon around the area but an hour later no trace of the bandits have been found. It was not known just how the trio made its escape.

Descriptions of the three men were broadcast by police but efforts to locate anyone who had seen the men were fruitless.

The bandits were described as being between 40 and 45 years old and were wearing brown or dark-colored hats. One man was described as having a red face, another as being of slim build and a third as wearing a dark brown overcoat.

The possibility was seen that the bandits might be the same trio who held up the Home Savings and Loan Association in Wapakoneta yesterday. Loot there holdup totaled $2,300.

Jews Claim Grab Of Beersheba; Plan Cease-Fire

TEL AVIV, Oct. 21 — Israeli officials announced the rout of Egyptian forces in the Negev area of Southern Palestine today with the capture of biblical Beersheba.

This town, southernmost settlement of importance in the Holy Land, fell after heavy nightlong fighting that included hand-to-hand combat.

Substantial booty in the form of anti-aircraft artillery, transport and an enormous amount of ammunition was captured. Israeli troops are now firmly entrenched on all arteries of communication throughout the Negev desert.

At the same time, the Israeli government announced that is is ready to order a cease-fire immediately, as soon as it is in-

Pumpkin Palaver

Bob Brehmer Jr. Wednesday had the dubious honor of being the first cash customer of Pumpkinjack, Pumpkin Show's highly-publicized beverage.

Trophies for Saturday's free Western Horse Show are getting plenty of look-see. They are spotted in Fitzpatrick Printery window.

Wednesday's sales indicated the original order of 7,500 wooden nickels may be exhausted before the show ends. Dr. William Rickey, Kiwanian in charge, said nickels rigged for mailing were sold out by nightfall.

Pickaway County Children's Home booth probably is the best-equipped on the streets. Free gas and electric service has been donated by Dr. David Goldschmidt next door. Ed Jury's telephone company, which provided the lot, also piped in water and even installed a telephone.

Mayor Thurman I. Miller headed a delegation of Pumpkin Show and school officials who

Court Denies Wallace Appeal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—The U. S. Supreme Court today refused to order Illinois election officials to put the Wallace Progressive Party on the November ballot.

By a six to three decision, the high court upheld a similar ruling of a three-judge district court in Chicago.

The Progressives challenged a section of the Illinois election law which required that petitions nominating candidates of a new party must include at least 200 signers from at least 50 of the state's 102 counties.

Clay Says Airlift To Keep Running

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 —Gen. Lucius Clay declared today that the Allied airlift into Berlin can be maintained as long as it is necessary for the United Nations to settle the blockade problem.

Clay made his statement at a news conference which he opened by eulogizing the Air Force men carrying out "operation Vittles."

The American commander in Germany also said that he did not believe the Russians would use force to interfere with the airlift now flying 5,000 tons of supplies daily and 3,000 daily in bad weather.

Clay, in Washington for a 28-hour visit, will fly back to Germany tonight after addressing the Alfred E. Smith memorial dinner in New York as guest of Francis Cardinal Spellman.

9 Americans Among Victims

PRESTWICK, Oct. 21—A New York-bound Dutch airliner crashed in flames today in Scotland, taking the lives of 37 of 40 persons aboard, including nine Americans.

The transatlantic plane of the Royal Dutch Airlines nosed into the ground after accidentally hitting a high tension wire while attempting a landing at Prestwick International Airport in bad weather.

Thirty-five of the 40 passengers and crew members aboard were killed outright.

One American woman among the original five survivors and the airliner hostess died later in hospitals.

The America woman was Mrs. Matilda Rohrs, who according to the passenger list was from Pompton Falls, N. J.

• • •

A TITLED passenger among the dead was Austrian Prince Alfred von Hohenlohe. His American destination was given as Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The Constellation plane, afire and with broken landing gear, plunged to the ground a mile from the village of Tarbolton, eight miles east of Prestwick airport.

The plane, which was coming in from Amsterdam, Holland, on the trip to New York, was damaged when it hit a high tension wire while approaching Prestwick airport under condtiions of

1,326 Pieces Pumpkin Pie Sold In Hour

Youth Canteen Booth on West Main street was swamped Wednesday night as Pumpkin Show goers attacked for their "nickel piece of pie."

But the Wednesday sales were only a drop in the proverbial bucket, since another 6,672 cuts of nickel pie will be for sale before week's end.

A total of 1,000 pies is to be sold during Pumpkin Show week, all baked in the Ed Wallace bakery.

Wallace, who has offered service of the bakery for the past two years, finds minor complications in the setup, since he is too busy baking the Canteen pies to bake any for his own sale.

• • •

WALLACE gave housewives a valuable tip on preparing pies Thursday—that is if they expect a well-filled guest list.

"Take a dab of canned pumpkin (70 gallons to be exact)" says the baker "Add a pinch of sugar (310 pounds), mix with flour (400 pounds), add a few eggs (960), stir in a trickle of milk (only 80 gallons), add a pinch of table salt (10 pounds), and then get the crust in flaky shape with a spoonful of lard (95 pounds of it). Then just slip it into the oven and bake. See how simple it is?"

poor visibility and low-hanging clouds.

When it hit the wire it cut off electric power and plunged the airfield into darkness.

A few minutes later the craft plummeted to the ground near Tarbolton and burned out completely except for the tail portion.

It was near the tail of the plane where rescue workers found the three survivors. They were a steward, stewardess and the flight engineer.

A Ludwig S. Rohrs, believed to be Mrs. Rohrs' husband, was listed among the American dead who included Mary Badir, 48; Henry Finnie, 38; James Rampas, 70; Joan Reichel, 60; William James Cale, 37; Ruppert Wedermeyer, 56, and Emma Wedermeyer, 51.

* * *

AMONG the dead was Austin F. E. Macinerny, European sales representative of the Lockheed Aircraft Co., which produces Constellations. A British subject, Macinery made his headquarters at Geneva, Switzerland.

There were in all 30 passengers, all of whom died, and the three survivors among 10 crew charge at Tarbolton, a plane carmembers.

While local authorities took rying Dutch civil aviation and airline officials was dispatched to the scene of the accident from Amsterdam. They began an immediate investigation.

When the plane arrived on schedule over Prestwick the ground staff at the airport attempted to "talk in" the airliner by radio because of the bad weather.

The ground staff also employed flares in an effort to assist the landing.

The pilot apparently overshot the runway and attempted to climb again. Then he radioed: "I have hit something. Going on fire. Attempting to climb."

In the mishap shortly after midnight, the plane swerved away from the airport and plummeted in flames into turnip fields.

The boys were identified as Rowland Beller, 17, of Columbus; Harold Waits, 16, of Marion; and Gene Taylor, 17, of Upper Sandusky.

Pontious said he was tipped off by Russell L. Byerly of London who said he became suspicious of the three boys when he drove past them.

First fire department call during Pumpkin Show Week was a smoke scare on Logan street. Fortunately, the run was made South, away from traffic and crowds of the big show.

The Army's M-Sgt. Frank Ruvio, head of a group of nine men from the Columbus recruiting office who manned military vehicles in parades, was hard at work selling his product. . . even out-talking concession men who appeared to be likely prospects.

Ben Gordon still was moaning early Thursday about missing out on the 212-pound pumpkin grown by Dick Moeller, county farmer. Moeller entered a 103-pounder in the show, but had sold the whopper for $12.

Pumpkinjack peddlers at the Booster Club booth reported that several of the community staid, elderly ladies were appearing, milk bottles in hand, for a batch of the rare elixir. A supply, originally estimated as enough for Wednesday AND Thursday, was sold out by 9:30 p. m. Wednesday.

There was many a tear-stained little eye as "losers" straggled away from the juding stand after the Little Miss Pumpkin Show parade. Disappointed, too, were as many proud mothers.

A concessionaire, who sells miniature trombones at a stand near the Court-Main bandstand, utilizes his spare moments accompanying whatever bands may be playing. Sour notes are the least of his worries.

One lady was disappointed in attempting to make a purchase. She wanted to "eat a Fanny-Parker." The gadget actually is a unipole, collapsible seat.

A working model of a minature cow about two-foot high stands life-like in the Hill Implement store on East Franklin street. "Old Bossie" swishes her tail, turns her head and her sides go in and out as if breathing. The Kochheiser hardware store window on West Main is decorated with a life-sized, but motionless, cow which stands glaring into the passing crowd.

Possibly the oldest authentic photographs of earlier Pumpkin Shows now on display in Circleville store windows can be seen in the windows of H and L. market, East Main street. Photos show oldtimers posing before shocks of fodder and "punkins'.

A special cop on city police force asked Chief William F. McCrady for badge "to get a cup of coffee with". "Use mine", quipped the Chief—"If you get any with it, bring it back, so I can try it myself".

U.S. Returns $17 Million

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 — The government reported today that it unzippered its tax purse and returned nearly $17 million to 845 American corporations in the way of tax relief during fiscal 1948.

The tax relief payments—at an all-time high—stretched to companies in virtually every state and Hawaii.

Actually, the bureau said, Uncle Sam handed the firms over $28 million during the year, but with his other hand accepted nearly $12 million of this back in additional income tax resulting from the rebates.

poor visibility and low-hanging clouds.

When it hit the wire it cut off electric power and plunged the airfield into darkness.

A few minutes later the craft plummeted to the ground near Tarbolton and burned out completely except for the tail portion.

It was near the tail of the plane where rescue workers found the three survivors. They were a steward, stewardess and the flight engineer.

A Ludwig S. Rohrs, believed to be Mrs. Rohrs' husband, was listed among the American dead who included Mary Badir, 48; Henry Finnie, 38; James Rampas, 70; Joan Reichel, 60; William James Cale, 37; Ruppert Wedermeyer, 56, and Emma Wedermeyer, 51.

* * *

AMONG the dead was Austin F. E. Macinerny, European sales representative of the Lockheed Aircraft Co., which produces Constellations. A British subject, Macinery made his headquarters at Geneva, Switzerland.

There were in all 30 passengers, all of whom died, and the three survivors among 10 crew charge at Tarbolton, a plane carmembers.

While local authorities took rying Dutch civil aviation and airline officials was dispatched to the scene of the accident from Amsterdam. They began an immediate investigation.

When the plane arrived on schedule over Prestwick the ground staff at the airport attempted to "talk in" the airliner by radio because of the bad weather.

The ground staff also employed flares in an effort to assist the landing.

The pilot apparently overshot the runway and attempted to climb again. Then he radioed: "I have hit something. Going on fire. Attempting to climb."

In the mishap shortly after midnight, the plane swerved away from the airport and plummeted in flames into turnip fields.

OTHER Israeli troops took the Arab stronghold of Beit Natif, 12 miles west of Bethlehem, in a drive on Egyptian positions near Jerusalem. Still other columns seized commanding positions on the Majdal-Bethlehem road.

The Israelite sweep eastward from the Mediterranean coast precipitated a mass flight from Arab villages in its path.

Simultaneously, Israeli planes were reported to have bombed the Arab strongholds of El Arish, Gaza, and Majdal for the seventh successive day.

Local Lad, 15, Given Hearing

A 15-year-old Circleville boy, was sentenced to Boys Industrial School, Lancaster, when he appeared Wednesday before Juvenile Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

The youth admitted stealing $105 early Friday from the Ray W. Davis home on Montclair avenue after forcing his way through a first floor window.

Davis told police the money was taken from his coat which was hanging in a clothes closet in the front room.

Judge Lamb pointed out this was the lad's third trip to the juvenile school for breaking and entering.

Pumpkin Palaver

jammed the press booth for the Band Festival.

First fire department call during Pumpkin Show Week was a smoke scare on Logan street. Fortunately, the run was made South, away from traffic and crowds of the big show.

The Army's M-Sgt. Frank Ruvio, head of a group of nine men from the Columbus recruiting office who manned military vehicles in parades, was hard at work selling his product. . . even out-talking concession men who appeared to be likely prospects.

Ben Gordon still was moaning early Thursday about missing out on the 212-pound pumpkin grown by Dick Moeller, county farmer. Moeller entered a 103-pounder in the show, but had sold the whopper for $12.

Pumpkinjack peddlers at the Booster Club booth reported that several of the community staid, elderly ladies were appearing, milk bottles in hand, for a batch of the rare elixir. A supply, originally estimated as enough for Wednesday AND Thursday, was sold out by 9:30 p. m. Wednesday.

There was many a tear-stained little eye as "losers" straggled away from the juding stand after the Little Miss Pumpkin Show parade. Disappointed, too, were as many proud mothers.

A concessionaire, who sells miniature trombones at a stand near the Court-Main bandstand, utilizes his spare moments accompanying whatever bands may be playing. Sour notes are the least of his worries.

One lady was disappointed in attempting to make a purchase. She wanted to "eat a Fanny-Parker." The gadget actually is a unipole, collapsible seat.

A working model of a minature cow about two-foot high stands life-like in the Hill Implement store on East Franklin street. "Old Bossie" swishes her tail, turns her head and her sides go in and out as if breathing. The Kochheiser hardware store window on West Main is decorated with a life-sized, but motionless, cow which stands glaring into the passing crowd.

Possibly the oldest authentic photographs of earlier Pumpkin Shows now on display in Circleville store windows can be seen in the windows of H and L. market, East Main street. Photos show oldtimers posing before shocks of fodder and "punkins'.

A special cop on city police force asked Chief William F. McCrady for badge "to get a cup of coffee with". "Use mine", quipped the Chief—"If you get any with it, bring it back, so I can try it myself".

UN RECEPTION given delegates by President Vincent Auriol of France gives British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin (left) an opportunity for a chat with Amir Faisal al Saud, leader of the Arab UN delegation. tank truck at the same time they were working with the batteries. Love noticed the truck was full and stopped to turn off the valve. Royse said:

"That was it. Then it blew. I heard two explosions. I couldn't tell what went first.

"My clothes were on fire and I started running. I stopped for a minute to beat out the flames, then started running again."

"By that time, a fellow in a restaurant next door—I don't know his name—saw us and took us to a hospital."

U.S. Returns $17 Million

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 — The government reported today that it unzippered its tax purse and returned nearly $17 million to 845 American corporations in the way of tax relief during fiscal 1948.

The tax relief payments—at an all-time high—stretched to companies in virtually every state and Hawaii.

Actually, the bureau said, Uncle Sam handed the firms over $28 million during the year, but with his other hand accepted nearly $12 million of this back in additional income tax resulting from the rebates.

Cleveland Holds Man In Burglary

Cleveland police are holding Rocco Bellezza, address unknown, in connection with a series of thefts including the $160 burglary of Tinks Tavern on Route 23 Aug. 6.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said the Cleveland detective bureau radioed here that it was sending fingerprints of the suspect and requested that any additional information be returned.

Authorities here believe Bellezza must have confessed to Cleveland police that he was implicated in the Circleville burglary.

Stolen from Tinks was a quantity of liquor, merchandise and cash from cigaret and popcorn machines.

8 Persons Hurt As Flyer Derails

GARDEN CITY, Kans., Oct. 21—A railroad spokesman reported that "about eight or ten" persons were injured today when the Santa Fe's crack California Limited was derailed near Pierceville, Kans.

In Chicago, a spokesman for the railroad reported that "at least 30 persons were injured." He said the injuries were not considered serious, and that there were no fatalities.

Contains NO dope, NO alcohol, NO oil. ONLY Nature's minerals, the oldest, most reliable remedy for rheumatism, arthritis, kidney and stomach ailments.
GEO-MINERAL will enrich your blood, help to make you strong, full of pep, life and energy. Lack of minerals in the blood causes anemia, headaches, nervousness. Minerals generate mental brilliancy, give sparkling eyes, red cheeks, fight disease, build up health.
RHEUMATISM, arthritis are dreadful diseases. Acid condition in the blood is often their cause. What could be the remedy? For thousands of years, minerals have been used to relieve the pain and suffering of these ills. People, on the advice of doctors, go to mineral springs to find cure, or relief. The late President Roosevelt used to go to Warm Springs in Georgia. He was helped or would not have gone there regularly twice a year.

Amazing Results
YEAR after year, people rush to mineral springs and spas, to drink and bathe in their miraculous water. We have all heard of the wondrous springs of Lourdes, France, and famous Thronion in ancient Greece where, according to legend Hercules, the god of eternal strength and youth, drank its waters and bathed to be forever young.
GEO-MINERAL contains minerals you get at the world's best springs. Watch your elimination from your bowels a day or two after using it. The waste, black as the color of your shoes, will start to break away, and you will SEE it. Also examine your urine. You may see impurities—poisonous waste—coming out of your kidneys, relieving you. And then realize the priceless value of GEO-MINERAL.

4,000 Turn Out To See Annual Band Festival Here

Nearly 4,000 spectators jam-packed Circleville high school football stands Wednesday night to witness the annual Pumpkin Show Band Festival.

This year's festival gave Pumpkin Show-goers a taste of the traditional "big time" scale spirit exhibited in the annual affairs, featuring six bands and a total of 33 drum majors and majorettes.

Although outside temperatures neared the freezing mark at the festival, all available "seeing space" was occupied. Some of the hardier young persons even climbed up swings, sat on sliding boards and shinnied trees to watch the spectacle.

Mary B. Woods of New Holland, Miss Pumpkin Show of 1947, reigned as queen at the festival, while the 1948 Little Miss Pumpkin Show, Sandy Bozman of Ashville, was introduced to the crowd.

* * *

Miss Barbara Sue Moss, judged healthiest Pickaway County 4-H Club girl, was honor guest at the program and is to be attendant to this year's Pumpkin Show queen in all parades.

Ashville high school band made the first appearance in the Wednesday extravaganza, followed by high school bands from London, Westerville, Jackson, Lancaster and Circleville.

The orange and black clad 45-piece Ashville band opened the Band Festival with a midfield rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner", followed by a formation consisting of a revolving circle and letters "v-i-l-l-e".

From that formation, the band swung into a large pumpkin, honoring the show, and Drum Major Joanne Hinkle and Majorettes Mona Lee Maddox, Patty Toole and Betty Badger performed a square dance to "Turkey in the Straw".

A large "A" for Ashville climaxed the band's showing. The band was directed by Charles Shell.

Second band to perform in the festival was the 60-piece Westerville high school group, led by Drum Major Ruth Landis.

First showing of the band was the formation of numerals "48" while playing the "Wiffenpoof Song".

From that formation the band formed a bell, accompanied by "Serenade of the Bells" and then into a gigantic umbrella, playing "Umbrella Man" while Majorettes Doris Condon, Ina Benton, Clarabelle Patterson, Bernine Burwell, Lila Goodwin and Doris Compton danced with umbrellas.

* * *

LAST FORMATION was a "W-H-S", accompanied by the school marching song, "Stand Up and Cheer". The band was directed by Paul Bowers.

London high school's 51-piece band performed in the third spot on the program, coming from behind a trumpet fanfare to form a large lyre. "Serenade of the Bells" was played in the lyre formation, after which the band played "Darktown Strutter's Ball" while forming a top hat and cane.

Feature of the London exhibition was the school house formed next, with smoke rolling from the chimney as the band played "School Days".

Marilyn Martin, primly garbed in black, performed a pantomine on a strict music instructor, darting into the band to single out two trombonists who "cut up".

Joe Ernst was the drum major for the organization, followed Assistant Major Roger Swaney and Majorettes Doris Chesser, Karolyn Roward, Sue Thompson and Nancy Burris. The band was directed by Ray Creighton.

The 80-piece Jackson high school followed, featuring two drum majors, Gloria Harles and Marilyn Landrum.

Jackson band formed a large circle as its first formation, followed by a box tied with a ribbon. The band played "Lets All Sing Like the Birdies Sing" while marching into a bird formation, and closed by large "J" while playing its school song. The band was directed by Robert Thorson.

* * *

CIRCLEVILLE high school marching band, in fifth spot in the program, turned in the most carefully-planned feature of the night, led by the high stepping drum major, Delores Elsea.

The Red and Black clad band opened with trumpet fanfare and stepped to the center of the field to form a four leaf clover.

Placards with pictures of Thomas Dewey, aspirant to the presidency of the U. S., and of President Harry S. Truman were carried the length of the field while the band played "Four Leaf Clover" and formed into the state of Missouri.

Theme of the CHS program was to vote in the Nov. 2 elections, and the theme was carried through the major portion of the band's showing.

Drum Majorettes Joan Wilkinson, Sue Brown, Marlene Mancini, Mary Ellen Reid, Jackie Smith and Peggy Davis took the spotlight in the latter portion of the program, dancing to the tune of "Dance With A Dolly".

Other CHS formations included a jack-o-lantern for the Pumpkin Show, skull and crossbones warning against Halloween time, and a series of precision drills. Truman Eberly is director of the 60-piece group.

Largest of the musical organizations to appear in the Festival was the Lancaster high school band, sporting 100 pieces.

* * *

IN ADDITION to its impressive marching size, the organization was noted for the six sousphones which gave a rumbling background to the music.

Preceded by trumpet fanfare, the Lancaster band swung into a four leaf clover formation and from there into a merry-go-round.

"Strawberry Blonde" was played in the formation, which oscillated up and down to simulate the merry-go-round action.

The festival was brought to an end following a formation of a bird, which was accompanied by the "Woody Woodpecker Song".

Drum Major Harold Kelch and Majorettes Sue King, Joyce Clark, Jan Parifin, Joyce Lewis and Billy White acted as bill for the bird, opening and closing in rhythm to the song. The band was directed by C. D. McIntyre.

Gen. Eichelberger Says Friendships Made In Japan

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 — Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, until recently commander of Eighth Army occupation forces in Japan, believes that a "great reservoir of potential friendship" has been built up toward the United States in Japan.

Eichelberger emphasized in a speech before the National Safety Congress in Chicago last night the importance of keeping U. S. prestige in Japan because it is bounded on the north by Communistic countries.

The Urbana, Ohio, native said disarmament of Japan, limiting its present defense "To a few police armed with pistols," has put the U. S. under obligation to protect that country. He asserted:

"Except for a part of Korea, Communistic countries control the Asiatic mainland to the north. If Japan were to become Communistic and thereby be added to the chain of Kurile islands, the Japan Sea would become a Communistic lake.

"To the United States, Canada, the Philippines and Australia, this would signify the loss of World War II and a potential defeat in the Pacific in any future war that might be forced upon us."

Ohio Farmers Set New Mark In Investments

Ohio farmers have set a record this year in the amount of money they have invested in their cooperative production credit associations, announces F. L. Kerr, president of the Production Credit Corporation of Louisville, under whose supervision the associations operate.

Two factors are involved in making this record, according to Kerr. Foremost is the 14.7 percent increase in the number of loans made, each farmer's investment in voting stock being in proportion to the size of his loan.

In addition, the associations' members have made heavy investment in non-voting capital stock in order to retire the Government capital put in to help them get started.

Since Jan. 1, 1948, 12,164 Ohio farmers have increased their PCA capital stock holdings by $235,1255 to a total of $1,608,300 on Sept. 30. During the same period the government's investment in PCA capital stock was reduced to $1,195,000.

'Hoppers Slash Alfalfa Seed

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — The Ohio Cooperative Crop Reporting Service has predicted a one-third drop in the state alfalfa seed harvest this year and blamed the decrease on grasshoppers.

The report said the harvest was expected to total only 2,300 bushels of thresher-run seed this year, compared to 3,400 bushels in 1947.

The bureau pointed out that while yields were up from .65 to .75 bushels per acre, the 'hoppers had cut the harvest acreage by 40 percent—or from 5,200 to 3,100 acres.

Herbert Protests Rerouting Gas

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21—A letter was enroute from Governor Herbert to the Federal Power Commission today, protesting the proposed diversion of 57 million additional cubic feet of natural gas from Ohio to other states.

Ohio companies have contracted for the new gas, but the FPC staff has recommended that it be allotted to other areas.

The governor requested Commission Chairman Nelson L. Smith to "respect the rights and requirements of the people of Ohio."

Peanuts appear on the housewife's shelves in several other forms than in their native shells, in candy and peanut-butter. They are used to make oleo, soap, glue, paper, chili sauce, ink, salve and cooking oils.

Joe Ernst was the drum major for the organization, followed Assistant Major Roger Swaney and Majorettes Doris Chesser, Karolyn Roward, Sue Thompson and Nancy Burris. The band was directed by Ray Creighton.

The 80-piece Jackson high school followed, featuring two drum majors, Gloria Harles and Marilyn Landrum.

Jackson band formed a large circle as its first formation, followed by a box tied with a ribbon. The band played "Lets All Sing Like the Birdies Sing" while marching into a bird formation, and closed by large "J" while playing its school song. The band was directed by Robert Thorson.

CIRCLEVILLE high school marching band, in fifth spot in the program, turned in the most carefully-planned feature of the night, led by the high stepping drum major, Delores Elsea.

The Red and Black clad band opened with trumpet fanfare and stepped to the center of the field to form a four leaf clover.

Placards with pictures of Thomas Dewey, aspirant to the presidency of the U. S., and of President Harry S. Truman were carried the length of the field while the band played "Four Leaf Clover" and formed into the state of Missouri.

Theme of the CHS program was to vote in the Nov. 2 elections, and the theme was carried through the major portion of the band's showing.

Drum Majorettes Joan Wilkinson, Sue Brown, Marlene Mancini, Mary Ellen Reid, Jackie Smith and Peggy Davis took the spotlight in the latter portion of the program, dancing to the tune of "Dance With A Dolly".

Other CHS formations included a jack-o-lantern for the Pumpkin Show, skull and crossbones warning against Halloween time, and a series of precision drills. Truman Eberly is director of the 60-piece group.

* * *

IN ADDITION to its impressive marching size, the organization was noted for the six sousphones which gave a rumbling background to the music.

Preceded by trumpet fanfare, the Lancaster band swung into a four leaf clover formation and from there into a merry-go-round.

"Strawberry Blonde" was played in the formation, which oscillated up and down to simulate the merry-go-round action.

The festival was brought to an end following a formation of a bird, which was accompanied by the "Woody Woodpecker Song".

Drum Major Harold Kelch and Majorettes Sue King, Joyce Clark, Jan Parifin, Joyce Lewis and Billy White acted as bill for the bird, opening and closing in rhythm to the song. The band was directed by C. D. McIntyre.

Gen. Eichelberger Says Friendships Made In Japan

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 — Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, until recently commander of Eighth Army occupation forces in Japan, believes that a "great reservoir of potential friendship" has been built up toward the United States in Japan.

Eichelberger emphasized in a speech before the National Safety Congress in Chicago last night the importance of keeping U. S. prestige in Japan because it is bounded on the north by Communistic countries.

The Urbana, Ohio, native said disarmament of Japan, limiting its present defense "To a few police armed with pistols," has put the U. S. under obligation to protect that country. He asserted:

"Except for a part of Korea, Communistic countries control the Asiatic mainland to the north. If Japan were to become Communistic and thereby be added to the chain of Kurile islands, the Japan Sea would become a Communistic lake.

"To the United States, Canada, the Philippines and Australia, this would signify the loss of World War II and a potential defeat in the Pacific in any future war that might be forced upon us."

Ohio Farmers Set New Mark In Investments

Ohio farmers have set a record this year in the amount of money they have invested in their cooperative production credit associations, announces F. L. Kerr, president of the Production Credit Corporation of Louisville, under whose supervision the associations operate.

Two factors are involved in making this record, according to Kerr. Foremost is the 14.7 percent increase in the number of loans made, each farmer's investment in voting stock being in proportion to the size of his loan.

In addition, the associations' members have made heavy investment in non-voting capital stock in order to retire the Government capital put in to help them get started.

Since Jan. 1, 1948, 12,164 Ohio farmers have increased their PCA capital stock holdings by $235,1255 to a total of $1,608,300 on Sept. 30. During the same period the government's investment in PCA capital stock was reduced to $1,195,000.

'Hoppers Slash Alfalfa Seed

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — The Ohio Cooperative Crop Reporting Service has predicted a one-third drop in the state alfalfa seed harvest this year and blamed the decrease on grasshoppers.

The report said the harvest was expected to total only 2,300 bushels of thresher-run seed this year, compared to 3,400 bushels in 1947.

The bureau pointed out that while yields were up from .65 to .75 bushels per acre, the 'hoppers had cut the harvest acreage by 40 percent—or from 5,200 to 3,100 acres.

Herbert Protests Rerouting Gas

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21—A letter was enroute from Governor Herbert to the Federal Power Commission today, protesting the proposed diversion of 57 million additional cubic feet of natural gas from Ohio to other states.

Ohio companies have contracted for the new gas, but the FPC staff has recommended that it be allotted to other areas.

The governor requested Commission Chairman Nelson L. Smith to "respect the rights and requirements of the people of Ohio."

Peanuts appear on the housewife's shelves in several other forms than in their native shells, in candy and peanut-butter. They are used to make oleo, soap, glue, paper, chili sauce, ink, salve and cooking oils.

Dr. Compton Is Cited Top Man In Federal Job

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 — A stalwart, white-haired citizen of 61, who is still a fair country baseball player and a fast man on the tennis court, is back in Washington these days, giving every indication that he intends to stick around a while.

Since he's not the type of person who would tackle a tough, long-haul job with no more than a 60 or 90-day guarantee, the grapevine has it that he'll still be working for the government, come the first of the year—no matter who triumphs on election day.

If so, it would indicate that even the heat of a bitter political campaign has not caused the two chief candidates to upset, by squabbilng, the scientific research phases of the nation's defense program.

The only provable fact, of course, is that Dr. Karl T. Compton is taking over the task of heading the Research and Development Board of the Military Services, succeeding Dr. Vannevar Bush.

But friends of the smiling, deceptively soft-spoken head of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology insist that he wouldn't have left his 18-year-old position there merely for a potentially frustrating, flash-in-the-pan gamble as a lame-duck federal appointee.

* * *

CONCEDING the possibility of a change in administration next year, the only possible conclusion then would be that President Truman and Governor Dewey had reached at least a tacit agreement on the case of Karl Compton.

He seldom messes around with politics particularly, until the politicians start tampering with whatever job he has been assigned to do. Then he has a reputation for slapping their hands impartially.

Within the past year, for instance, he has sharply chided the Democratic President and a Republican-ruled congressional committee. In neither case was he even accused of having a political ax to grind.

For another thing, Compton's wartime record is little short of spectacular. Probably no single scientist had as varied and important a part in the research phases of the Allied victory. He was and is one of the leading atomic scientists.

He helped develop the deadly proximity fuse which played such havoc with enemy troops and morale when the shells it set off were exploded at treetop height, thus rendering foxholes comparatively useless.

He also was involved in perfecting radar, the tank-busting bazooka and the amphibious duck which shuttled between offshore ships and inland supply dumps on half a hundred beachheads around the world.

While doing all this, he also was continuing to handle his job at MIT—which in itself was a vital war operation, in that it turned out hundreds of expert technicians for the military services.

While admitting nothing about the possibility of a Truman-Dewey "deal" on the appointment, a leading GOP spokesman commented that "you'd have to look a long ways to get another leading scientist and top administrator in the same package!"

Aide Says Cows Show Good Sense When They Eye 'Greener Grass'

The old saying that "grass is greener on the other side of the fence" has a scientific basis in fact, according to Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent.

Best cites a recent statement by Dr. William A. Albrecht, head of the soils department of the University of Missouri that cattle's grazing habits are based on a search for feed that will best nourish them.

"When a cow risks her neck to get grass on the other side of the fence" said Albrecht, "she is showing good sense. She does this because that grass not only looks, but is, greener. She is instinctively seeking grass from soil high in protein producing elements."

Even buffaloes of pioneer times knew that soil fertility was greater in some areas than others, Albrecht added. For that reason they stayed on the grasslands of what is now the hard wheat belt. There they found feed high in mineral fertility that contained body-building, bone-making values.

Albrecht warned that widespread loss of "life-giving elements" from the soil is becoming more serious.

"We have been told that armies march on their stomachs," he said. "But we have not been told that stomachs march along according to the fertility of the soil. Soil fertility is determined by chemical elements that contribute to the construction and body functions of both plants and animals.

"Nature starts us with good bodies. But the continuance of good bodies depends on the soil that produces the food we eat. Declining soil fertility means a decline in the health of our crops, our livestock and ourselves."

Albrecht urged residents of "paved streets as well as rural routes" to be concerned with the dangers of declining soil fertility.

Soils, like bank accounts, depend for their solvency on what is deposited as well as what is taken out, he said.

Rebuilding the soil's fertility strength so that it can produce crops with body-building values, said Albrecht, depends on proper soil management. That includes liming, the growing of deep-rooted legumes, the use of phosphate and potash fertilizers and the return of barnyard manures and green manures to balance fertility losses through crop removals.

WCTU Outlines 'Crusade' Day

CINCINNATI, Oct. 21 — The Ohio Women's Christian Temperance Union swung into the second day of its annual convention in Cincinnati today, encouraged by word that 70 per cent of Ohio was without hard liquor.

Ohio WCTU President Mary B. Ervin of Columbus told delegates yesterday a "new crusade day" was at hand, and that 50 per cent of the state had outlawed beer and liquor and 70 per cent had banned liquor alone.

She said this was accomplished by local option, which she called "our immediate prohibition weapon."

'Love Potion' Slayer Goes Before Jury

MEDINA, Oct. 21—Clark Hill, on trial for the "love-potion" slaying of Jeanette Weimer, was to take the stand in his own defense today as the case entered its fourth day in Medina County Courthouse.

Medical experts testified yesterday that Miss Weimer, Hill's 17-year-old girlfriend, was doomed the moment she drank her drugged milkshake.

Erhardt J. Kunde, Cleveland city chemist, revealed that the contents of the dead girl's stomach indicated that she had consumed 30.5 grains of a dangerous sex-stimulating drug—some 30 times an ordinary fatal amount.

Previously, Cuyahoga County Coroner Samuel R. Gerber had told the court that a dosage in excess of one grain could be fatal to a human being.

* * *

HILL, according to his own confession, killed the girl last April 10 by filling his car with carbon monoxide fumes because he feared she was dying of the drug he put in her drink to make her more responsive to his advances.

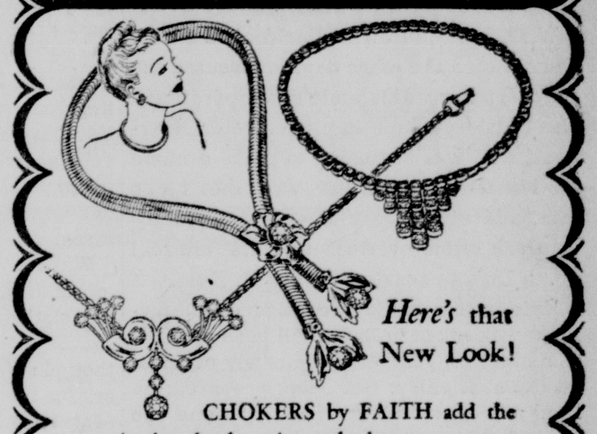

In yesterday's testimony, Defense Attorney Raymond B. Bennett led off with an Akron physician, who found the 19-year-old defendant had no mental disorder.

He also was involved in perfecting radar, the tank-busting bazooka and the amphibious duck which shuttled between offshore ships and inland supply dumps on half a hundred beachheads around the world.

While doing all this, he also was continuing to handle his job at MIT—which in itself was a vital war operation, in that it turned out hundreds of expert technicians for the military services.

While admitting nothing about the possibility of a Truman-Dewey "deal" on the appointment, a leading GOP spokesman commented that "you'd have to look a long-ways to get another leading scientist and top administrator in the same package!"

Aide Says Cows Show Good Sense When They Eye 'Greener Grass'

The old saying that "grass is greener on the other side of the fence" has a scientific basis in fact, according to Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent.

Best cites a recent statement by Dr. William A. Albrecht, head of the soils department of the University of Missouri that cattle's grazing habits are based on a search for feed that will best nourish them.

"When a cow risks her neck to get grass on the other side of the fence" said Albrecht, "she is showing good sense. She does this because that grass not only looks, but is, greener. She is instinctively seeking grass from soil high in protein producing elements."

Even buffaloes of pioneer times knew that soil fertility was greater in some areas than others, Albrecht added. For that reason they stayed on the grasslands of what is now the hard wheat belt. There they found feed high in mineral fertility that contained body-building, bone-making values.

Albrecht warned that widespread loss of "life-giving elements" from the soil is becoming more serious.

"We have been told that armies march on their stomachs," he said. "But we have not been told that stomachs march along according to the fertility of the soil. Soil fertility is determined by chemical elements that contribute to the construction and body functions of both plants and animals.

"Nature starts us with good bodies. But the continuance of good bodies depends on the soil that produces the food we eat. Declining soil fertility means a decline in the health of our crops, our livestock and ourselves."

Albrecht urged residents of "paved streets as well as rural routes" to be concerned with the dangers of declining soil fertility.

Soils, like bank accounts, depend for their solvency on what is deposited as well as what is taken out, he said.

Rebuilding the soil's fertility strength so that it can produce crops with body-building values, said Albrecht, depends on proper soil management. That includes liming, the growing of deep-rooted legumes, the use of phosphate and potash fertilizers and the return of barnyard manures and green manures to balance fertility losses through crop removals.

WCTU Outlines 'Crusade' Day

CINCINNATI, Oct. 21 — The Ohio Women's Christian Temperance Union swung into the second day of its annual convention in Cincinnati today, encouraged by word that 70 per cent of Ohio was without hard liquor.

Ohio WCTU President Mary B. Ervin of Columbus told delegates yesterday a "new crusade day" was at hand, and that 50 per cent of the state had outlawed beer and liquor and 70 per cent had banned liquor alone.

She said this was accomplished by local option, which she called "our immediate prohibition weapon."

'Love Potion' Slayer Goes Before Jury

MEDINA, Oct. 21—Clark Hill, on trial for the "love-potion" slaying of Jeanette Weimer, was to take the stand in his own defense today as the case entered its fourth day in Medina County Courthouse.

Medical experts testified yesterday that Miss Weimer, Hill's 17-year-old girlfriend, was doomed the moment she drank her drugged milkshake.

Erhardt J. Kunde, Cleveland city chemist, revealed that the contents of the dead girl's stomach indicated that she had consumed 30.5 grains of a dangerous sex-stimulating drug—some 30 times an ordinary fatal amount.

Previously, Cuyahoga County Coroner Samuel R. Gerber had told the court that a dosage in excess of one grain could be fatal to a human being.

• • •

HILL, according to his own confession, killed the girl last April 10 by filling his car with carbon monoxide fumes because he feared she was dying of the drug he put in her drink to make her more responsive to his advances.

In yesterday's testimony, Defense Attorney Raymond B. Bennett led off with an Akron physician, who found the 19-year-old defendant had no mental disorder.

KYLE OF SOUTH DAKOTA

WHEN Harlan J. Bushfield of South Dakota died the other day, he became the third senator in his state's comparatively short history to die in office. Peter Norbeck, who was beginning to make a name for himself in the latter '30's, met this fate, and at the beginning of the century death in office overtook a quite unusual South Dakota senator, James H. Kyle.

Kyle, a former Congregational clergyman, was asked in 1890 to fill in as speaker at a state convention of the newly organized Populist party. Not being prepared, he read a printed address made by some one else 13 years earlier. It was a huge success, and the Populists promptly nominated and elected him to the state senate. Next year, when the legislature came to elect a United States senator, there was a deadlock, which eventually resulted in Kyle's election. Six years later a Populist-Democratic fusion re-elected him, but now Kyle, evidently sensing a changing political climate, registered not as a Populist, but as an independent. Kyle and George W. Norris of Nebraska are the only senators in many years recorded as independents.

As senator he was particularly interested in education, and did useful work in the Senate committee on that subject. He was evidently planning to run for a third term as a Republican, having usually voted with that party during his second term, but he died suddenly in 1901. Most of his successors from South Dakota have been less colorful.

TIME FOR VOTING

A SURVEY by the National Industrial Conference Board finds considerable variation among companies employing large numbers of workers as to the policy of allowing workers election day time off, with pay, for voting. Company policies mostly conform closely with state regulations in the 24 states where laws cover the matter. Elsewhere a few companies plan full holidays for election day, but most which have time-off policies limit the time to two hours or less.

With production as badly needed generally as it now is, it does not make good sense to shut down a plant for a full day to allow workers to vote. Whether the time allowed should be one hour or four hours depends on local circumstances, and no general observation can be made. The time should be ample for voting, but there is no reason why it should be long enough for ward-heeling activities.

What should be uniform is the general policy of allowing workers in all kinds of jobs the necessary time to vote, so that no individual would be penalized financially for doing this important civic duty.

These Days

Henry Wallace will certainly be defeated no matter who is elected, but the Communists may succeed in electing a number of members of the House of Representatives. Some are avowed members of the Communist Party some are fellow-travelers some are opportunists who are willing to go along because they think that that is the way they can best succeed. Some are politicians who will take an indorsement from anybody.

None of these men is running on the Communist ticket and therefore they are disguised, but the voter who wishes to vote American has a ready test: if any candidate for the House of Representatives is on the Progressive ticket or is indorsed by the Progressive Party, he has accepted the support of those who are suspected of being a fifth column of a foreign foe. (In New York, the Progressive Party goes under the name of the American Labor Party.) You have a right to your suspicions and to vote accordingly. I, as a voter, have for many years refused to vote for anyone who had an American Labor Party indorsement.

Wallace and the Progressive Party might succeed in placing a sufficient number of their followers in Congress to be a source of trouble to this country. Originally they planned to run about 35 of their followers for members of the House of Representatives. Subsequently, they withdrew some of their own candidates and substituted indorsements for men and women running on other parties.

In New York, they have concentrated their forces to elect Leo Isacson in the Bronx, Lee Pressman in Brooklyn, Vito Marcantonio and Paul O'Dwyer in Manhattan. This would make a pernicious quartet in the House of Representatives. They would utilize their time and energies in the interest of the line which Henry Wallace represents and which the American people will repudiate at the polls.

Paul O'Dwyer is the brother of the Mayor of New York, who is opposed to the American Labor Party. Paul O'Dwyer has heretofore been on the quiet side but is now out in the open.

In West Virginia, a curious situation has arisen. A man by the name of Curtis Johnson, who had been a secretary to a Congressman from Hollywood, showed up in West Virginia representing what he called the Citizens Committee on Displaced Persons.

He now says he represents the Non-Partisan League of Jews, Catholics and Negroes. Nobody ever heard of that one, but it must be something which is opposed to Senator Revercomb. Inquiries concerning that organization produce no data. Maybe it has been so recently created that it hasn't got around yet.

In West Virginia, it is generally reported that money is pouring in from New York to fight Revercomb in West Virginia. That is like that situation in Montana into which flowed a stream of New York cash to defeat Senator Wheeler. The Montanans did not like that when they discovered it. Nor do the West Virginians like what they hear.

All the facts of this situation will ultimately be disclosed, as it is not possible to keep campaign contributions long secret. Numerous devices are employed to hide some types of campaign contributions, but someone always tells.

Different Treatments For Children With a Birthmark

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE child with a conspicuous red birthmark across its face presents a very real problem to both the parents and the physician, particularly if it occurs in a girl. Parents are naturally eager to get rid of such blemishes as soon as possible, but the physician may advise a policy of wait-and-see because some of these marks may tend to disappear as the baby grows older.

Birthmarks are known technically as angiomas and are usually present at birth, though they sometimes develop later on. All are made up of a collection of blood vessels, though some are flat and others are raised above the skin to form a sort of blood tumor.

Purple Area

So far, science has had little success in dealing with the type of birthmark known as the "port wine stain" which forms a large purple area on the skin. Other such growths, however, respond to treatment and should always receive attention when they extend into the mouth or eyes.

Cutting them out, of course, is the quickest way to obtain a cure and the results are usually satisfactory. Whether or not the growth should be removed surgically will depend upon its locale. Large angiomas can seldom be satisfactorily removed in this way.

X-ray treatments are widely employed and are effective to a large degree when properly used. However, it is suggested that this form of treatment not be employed after the child has reached two years of age. Such treatment should be avoided on the scalp, around the eyes, lips, breasts and sex organs, because of possible harmful effects on these structures.

Another form of treatment is the application of solid carbon dioxide. This is a substance that freezes the growth and speeds up its disappearance. A great deal of skill is required in carrying out this treatment so as not to produce a great deal of scarring.

Injections Given

A form of treatment which seems to be successful in most cases is the injection of sclerosing or scarring materials, such as sodium morrhuate. This treatment is easily carried out and the procedure is in no way dangerous. For example, in a group of 233 patients, good results were obtained in two-thirds of them, and, in all but one out of ten, the results were fairly good. This method of treatment has no advantage insofar as speeding up the rate of removal of the growth is concerned, but it usually results in fewer scars. The results are best when the patient is treated early in life and the growth has been present for only a short time. The poorest results are obtained in those growths about the face and mouth.

When such a growth is present, it is advisable that it be carefully studied by a specialist who will determine the best method of treatment. In all instances, the earlier the treatment is given, the better will be the result.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. L.: I have had arthritis for two years and have been unable to walk, due to stiffness in the knees. Is there any way they can be straightened out?

Answer: An orthopedic specialist should be consulted, who will determine the best treatment in your case.

Surgery may be required to straighten the knees.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A British scientist finds laughing gas present over the United States. That's not surprising after 86 campaign speeches.

With one of the candidates it's difficult to tell whether he's auditioning for the first Tuesday in November or any Tuesday on radio.

But the campaign proves that any American boy can grow up with the idea of living in the White House. . .and for the first time it's frightening.

Jesse Jones believes that a President should be limited to one term of six years. If they can't have that some candidates will settle for four terms of four years.

Anyway the campaign is getting so interesting that two columnists have declared war and no reader has noticed it.

Play Bridge With

BARCLAY

DUMMY EMANCIPATED

AT LAST the dummy is really in the game. He has been emancipated by the new Laws, which took effect officially on October 1, and now has many rights he did not have before. It gives him an interest in the game, and provisions regarding him follow the same common sense lines as the rest of the new regulations.

As before, the dummy is supposed to lay down his hand after the opening lead, then refrain from comment and taking any active part in the play. But, unless he forfeits his rights, as he does by looking at any card in any other player's hand, he is allowed to give or obtain information as to fact or Law, question any player regarding a revoke, draw attention to any irregularity, or try to prevent one, such as a lead out of turn, by calling the player's attention to the fact that he is apparently about to commit one.

If the dummy, however, should purposely see any of the cards of the declarer or either defender, and thereafter is the first to draw attention to a defender's irregularity, the declarer may not enforce any penalty; if he warns declarer not to lead from the wrong hand, either defender may specify the hand from which the declarer shall lead; if he is the first to ask the declarer if a play from his hand is a revoke, and the card in consequence is withdrawn, either defender may require the declarer to substitute his highest or lowest correct card.

A card in any hand is played when named as the one its owner proposes to play, unless its designation is changed practically in the same breath. A card in any unfaced hand is played when it touches the table face upward after being detached from the other cards with apparent intent to play; a defender's card so detached is also played as soon as his partner sees its face. A card in dummy or any other faced card is played when touched unless for a purpose other than play either manifest or mentioned. A played card may not be withdrawn except in compliance with Laws governing irregularities.

If a defender prematurely leads to the next trick before his partner has played to the current trick, or plays out of rotation before his partner has played, the declarer may require his partner to play his highest or lowest card of the led suit or, if unable to follow suit, then a card of another specified suit, except that if declarer has played from both his holdings, either defender may play before his partner.

Any lead out of turn may be treated as a correct lead, and must be if the other side plays a card before attention is called to the irregularity. If the declarer exposes his hand after an opening lead by the wrong defender, and before dummy has spread any of his hand, the dummy becomes the declarer. If either defender requires declarer to retract his lead out of turn, the wrong card is replaced and if declarer has led from the wrong hand he must lead from the correct hand and, if he can, a card of the same suit. A defender's drawing attention to declarer's lead out of turn is equivalent to requiring its retraction.

If the declarer requires a defender to retract his lead out of turn, when it is declarer's lead the card led becomes a penalty card, and when it is the other defender's lead the declarer may either forbid the lead of that suit and allow the card to be picked up or else may treat the card as a penalty card and allow any to be led. A lead or play simultaneously with another's proper lead or play is deemed to be subsequent, and if a defender leads or plays two or more cards simultaneously, he may play either and the other becomes a penalty card.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

NO ONE COULD long live with Alexandria and not be exposed to realism. Millicent put down her comb and thought, horrified, But he never tried to find her until now!

Gail, at her desk, dialed Brad's private number at the laboratory. His secretary, an efficient, discreet man, not young, answered, and she asked, "Is Mr. Spencer free to come to the telephone, Mr. Jonas? This is Mrs. Spencer."

"I'm sorry," said Jonas, "but he went out over an hour ago and has not returned, Mrs. Spencer."

"It's terribly important," she said. "Is there any way I can reach him?"

"I hope no one is ill," he began, the urgency in her voice disturbed him, but she said quickly, "No . . . it's not that."

He speculated briefly, wondering, as he answered, "Mr. Spencer went to the Sturm apartment, Dr. Sturm isn't in the laboratory today. Her husband is ill. She telephoned after lunch and Mr. Spencer went as soon as he could, to see if he could be of assistance. Have you the Sturm number? If not, I'll give it to you."

"Never mind," Gail said, "but if he telephones or returns, will you ask him to call me? . . . Thank you, Mr. Jonas."

She hung up and sat there, shivering despite the warmth of the room, drawing idle circles on the fresh blotter with her pen. You weren't supposed to feel as she did. Honor thy father . . . but how could you honor a man whose life was built upon dishonor, who had darkened her formative years with the shadow of her mother's grief and disillusion? Blood was not thicker than water, she thought, the water under the bridge.

If he had come to her ill, beaten, exhibiting the slightest penitence, she would, she assured herself, be certain to experience the warmer impulse of pity, beyond what would have seemed mere obligation. But her father appeared in good health, was not defeated, and she was certain, regretted nothing. He was, in short, a cool and dangerous man.

She went to the dressing room, to rearrange her hair, to employ a little rouge, which she seldom used, and to redden her lips. She was making excuses not to go downstairs, and knew her own cowardice. What were they saying to each other? What was Alexandria thinking?

• • •

Alexandria, erect in a straight chair, was thinking that every step counted, the last as well as the first. And the initial conventional fencing was almost over, a brittle, tentative clashing, very courteous.

Rogers brought it to a conclusion, no blood drawn. He disliked wasting time, in certain circumstances; and judged that he need not waste it with this integrated old woman. He said, "You must wonder why I have reappeared, Mrs. Spencer?"

"Not at all," she denied sweetly. "I quite understand your anxiety to see Gail again."

"I'm afraid you do," he agreed, with a consciously rueful smile, and she thought, He has charm; he has been educated in many schools, some conventional. He has—an air. There is good blood here, she decided further, all the more dangerous in a bad man.

She said briskly, "The amenities can be dropped. The facts are clear. I'll state them briefly. You left Gail and your wife when Gail was a child. Since then you have evinced no interest in their welfare, or circumstances, until recently, when, I assume, you learned that your daughter had married my grandson."

"That is substantially correct," he agreed, with insolent admiration, "and, if I may use a vulgar phrase, Gail has done very well for herself, I am happy to say."

"Extremely well," conceded Alexandria mildly, "as my grandson is an exceptionally fine person: intelligent, sound, and I may add, realistic."

"Indeed? How gratifying," he murmured, and went on, "I was astonished to learn from Gail that her husband had tried to trace me. Had I been in her position, I would have concealed the existence of so unsatisfactory a parent."

"Gail is very honest," said Mrs. Spencer; "moreover, she was not certain that you did exist."

"'Tis true, 'tis pity; and pity 'tis 'tis true,'" quoted Mr. Rogers. "How I managed to survive, I don't know; nor why. Perhaps for this agreeable moment? Has Gail told you anything about me, Mrs. Spencer?"

"Nothing," answered Alexandria pleasantly, "that would lead me to believe your survival desirable."

"I admire your frankness. I meant, however, did she tell you anything of my antecedents? Come to think of it, she probably knows very little. My grandfather was an Englishman, one of a large family, land poor, with a good name and little else. An unfortunate younger son, he came to the States while his brothers entered the usual professions, army, navy and the church. He settled in Boston, married a distant connection, with some means, and prospered. My father, an only child, attended Harvard university. Upon his graduation, he did not see eye to eye with my grandfather. He had no interest in the family business, which was merchandising. This was clairvoyant of him, as the business was badly hit by the panic of ninety-three, never recovered, and vanished in the year I was born. Meantime, my father had gone west where he married a beautiful, unsuitable young woman, his landlady's niece. I am sure you can understand his parents' dismay," he said smoothly, "and the fact that he was cut off with the customary shilling. There wasn't much more, anyway. But my parents were hard working and thrifty. They sent me east, with enough to take me through the university and bring me to New York. They died in the influenza epidemic of eighteen. I am not, by the way, a hero of the First World War. I am happy to say that a football knee kept me out of it. The rest of the case history you know, or surmise. I have had good times and bad. I assure you that all graduates of my university, however desperate, do not go about crying 'Rinehart!' as I have seen depicted in the motion pictures. A college education is seldom legal tender for a tolerable meal."

"All very interesting," remarked Alexandria, "but beside the point. How much do you want, Mr. Rogers?"

"I do like a woman who arrives quickly at the right conclusion," he told her. "How much? Let me see . . . Not, I assure you, the small sum sufficient to keep me from the gutter. Incidentally, it isn't a bad place, once you get the hang of it. No, Mrs. Spencer. An assured income, upon which I would be able—shall we say—to travel. I have seen a good deal of the world, but not all, and at my age one doesn't join the navy."

"Ridiculous," she said shortly, "and out of the question."

"Are you sure?" he inquired. "Have you considered the publicity angle? I mentioned it to Gail, the human interest story, replete with sobs. She is an idealist, I'm afraid, as she believes no paper would print it. What do you think?"

"Much as you do," said Alexandria dryly.

"I suppose you could have me arrested," he said dreamily, "although upon what charges? Disturbing the Spencer peace? But that wouldn't read well either, would it?"

Andrews interrupted, bearing tea, and Rogers relaxed. "It's been a long time," he said, observing the silver, "this is very pleasant."

Alexandria asked how he preferred his tea. He told her and took the cup. He was thirsty, if not for tea. He found the lacing of rum tantalizing. Also, he was hungry. He debated this. Should he wolf the sandwiches, which might arouse her sense of duty, or nobly refrain, merely nibbling the unsatisfactory edges? Perhaps the effect would be the same. This was a very smart old girl. He would nibble, with open restraint.

She said, "Mr. Rogers, Gail will join us presently, together with my companion, Miss Ellis. We will therefore postpone our discussion."

"Quite," he agreed, heard Gail coming downstairs, and rose as she entered. She sat down, without looking at him, close to Alexandria, accepted a cup, and addressed Alexandria. "Brad's not at the laboratory," she said, "but if he returns there, before coming home, or if he telephones, Mr. Jonas will have him call me."

Her voice was steady enough. Alexandria looked at her with moderate approbation. She asked, "Is Millicent coming?"

The naval battle of Trafalgar was fought between the French and English fleets on Oct. 21, 1805, resulting in Admiral Nelson's death and a great victory over Napoleon Bonaparte. Oct. 21, 1746, the charter of Princeton university was granted. Samuel Taylor Coleridge, one of the "English lake poets," was born on this same date in 1772.

JOBS UPON A TIME

Margaret Chase Smith, the first woman ever elected to the United States senate without having first been appointed to fill an unexpired term, was once a school teacher in Skowhegan, Maine. Mrs. Chase then became an office executive on a newspaper, and later held executive positions in other business offices. She became a member of the 77th to 80th United States congresses from 1941, to serve until 1949. In 1930 the then Margaret Chase was married to Clyde H. Smith, who died in 1940. Her home is still in Skowhegan, Me.

Lauritz Melchior, star of the Metropolitan Opera company and motion picture actor and singer, is famous for his tenor roles. Melchior began his singing career as a baritone, however. He was born in Copenhagen, Denmark, and studied music from early childhood. At the age of 18 he began to study singing seriously, and four years later, while he was still at school, he was offered the baritone role of Germont in La Traviata. A friend finally convinced him that his voice was tenor, and by dint of study Melchior changed to the heroic range in which he is world famous. He has been in the United States since 1926. His first wife died, and his second wife is Maria Hacker, a former European film star.

Homecoming for many, and the many including Charles A. Irwin. Moved to Cincinnati about 60 years ago after making an athletic name for himself with the Buckeyes. Who were the Buckeyes? Just the greatest amateur baseball team ever seen in Ohio. Proclaimed such by Harry Weldon, who then was sports editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer. Started when a bunch of grade school boys started playing at the Old Everts school. Waded through any and all opposition in 1886, '87, '88 and '89. Played its final game against the Cincinnati Shamrocks at Cincinnati, the game breaking up in a row when the Circleville aggregation forged ahead and the umpire ruled in favor of the Shamrocks. Weldon, who saw the game, declared the decision a "stinker."

So good and so appreciated that the citizens in 1886 bought uniforms for the entire squad, leased the ground where Ted Lewis park is now situated, fenced it, erected a grand stand and bleachers and turned it over to the Buckeyes. No wonder so many of the old timers still talk about those young athletes.

WHEN Harlan J. Bushfield of South Dakota died the other day, he became the third senator in his state's comparatively short history to die in office. Peter Norbeck, who was beginning to make a name for himself in the latter '30's, met this fate, and at the beginning of the century death in office overtook a quite unusual South Dakota senator, James H. Kyle.

Kyle, a former Congregational clergyman, was asked in 1890 to fill in as speaker at a state convention of the newly organized Populist party. Not being prepared, he read a printed address made by some one else 13 years earlier. It was a huge success, and the Populists promptly nominated and elected him to the state senate. Next year, when the legislature came to elect a United States senator, there was a deadlock, which eventually resulted in Kyle's election. Six years later a Populist-Democratic fusion re-elected him, but now Kyle, evidently sensing a changing political climate, registered not as a Populist, but as an independent. Kyle and George W. Norris of Nebraska are the only senators in many years recorded as independents.

As senator he was particularly interested in education, and did useful work in the Senate committee on that subject. He was evidently planning to run for a third term as a Republican, having usually voted with that party during his second term, but he died suddenly in 1901. Most of his successors from South Dakota have been less colorful.

TIME FOR VOTING

A SURVEY by the National Industrial Conference Board finds considerable variation among companies employing large numbers of workers as to the policy of allowing workers election day time off, with pay, for voting. Company policies mostly conform closely with state regulations in the 24 states where laws cover the matter. Elsewhere a few companies plan full holidays for election day, but most which have time-off policies limit the time to two hours or less.

With production as badly needed generally as it now is, it does not make good sense to shut down a plant for a full day to allow workers to vote. Whether the time allowed should be one hour or four hours depends on local circumstances, and no general observation can be made. The time should be ample for voting, but there is no reason why it should be long enough for ward-heeling activities.

What should be uniform is the general policy of allowing workers in all kinds of jobs the necessary time to vote, so that no individual would be penalized financially for doing this important civic duty.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Henry Wallace will certainly be defeated no matter who is elected, but the Communists may succeed in electing a number of members of the House of Representatives. Some are avowed members of the Communist Party some are fellow-travelers some are opportunists who are willing to go along because they think that that is the way they can best succeed. Some are politicians who will take an indorsement from anybody.

None of these men is running on the Communist ticket and therefore they are disguised, but the voter who wishes to vote American has a ready test: if any candidate for the House of Representatives is on the Progressive ticket or is indorsed by the Progressive Party, he has accepted the support of those who are suspected of being a fifth column of a foreign foe. (In New York, the Progressive Party goes under the name of the American Labor Party.) You have a right to your suspicions and to vote accordingly. I, as a voter, have for many years refused to vote for anyone who had an American Labor Party indorsement.

Wallace and the Progressive Party might succeed in placing a sufficient number of their followers in Congress to be a source of trouble to this country. Originally they planned to run about 35 of their followers for members of the House of Representatives. Subsequently, they withdrew some of their own candidates and substituted indorsements for men and women running on other parties.

In New York, they have concentrated their forces to elect Leo Isacson in the Bronx, Lee Pressman in Brooklyn, Vito Marcantonio and Paul O'Dwyer in Manhattan. This would make a pernicious quartet in the House of Representatives. They would utilize their time and energies in the interest of the line which Henry Wallace represents and which the American people will repudiate at the polls.

Paul O'Dwyer is the brother of the Mayor of New York, who is opposed to the American Labor Party. Paul O'Dwyer has heretofore been on the quiet side but is now out in the open.

In West Virginia, a curious situation has arisen. A man by the name of Curtis Johnson, who had been a secretary to a Congressman from Hollywood, showed up in West Virginia representing what he called the Citizens Committee on Displaced Persons.

He now says he represents the Non-Partisan League of Jews, Catholics and Negroes. Nobody ever heard of that one, but it must be something which is opposed to Senator Revercomb. Inquiries concerning that organization produce no data. Maybe it has been so recently created that it hasn't got around yet.

In West Virginia, it is generally reported that money is pouring in from New York to fight Revercomb in West Virginia. That is like that situation in Montana into which flowed a stream of New York cash to defeat Senator Wheeler. The Montanans did not like that when they discovered it. Nor do the West Virginians like what they hear.

All the facts of this situation will ultimately be disclosed, as it is not possible to keep campaign contributions long secret. Numerous devices are employed to hide some types of campaign contributions, but someone always tells.

Different Treatments For Children With a Birthmark

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE child with a conspicuous red birthmark across its face presents a very real problem to both the parents and the physician, particularly if it occurs in a girl. Parents are naturally eager to get rid of such blemishes as soon as possible, but the physician may advise a policy of wait-and-see because some of these marks may tend to disappear as the baby grows older.

Birthmarks are known technically as angiomas and are usually present at birth, though they sometimes develop later on. All are made up of a collection of blood vessels, though some are flat and others are raised above the skin to form a sort of blood tumor.

Purple Area

So far, science has had little success in dealing with the type of birthmark known as the "port wine stain" which forms a large purple area on the skin. Other such growths, however, respond to treatment and should always receive attention when they extend into the mouth or eyes.

Cutting them out, of course, is the quickest way to obtain a cure and the results are usually satisfactory. Whether or not the growth should be removed surgically will depend upon its locale. Large angiomas can seldom be satisfactorily removed in this way.

X-ray treatments are widely employed and are effective to a large degree when properly used. However, it is suggested that this form of treatment not be employed after the child has reached two years of age. Such treatment should be avoided on the scalp, around the eyes, lips, breasts and sex organs, because of possible harmful effects on these structures.

Another form of treatment is the application of solid carbon dioxide. This is a substance that freezes the growth and speeds up its disappearance. A great deal of skill is required in carrying out this treatment so as not to produce a great deal of scarring.

Injections Given

A form of treatment which seems to be successful in most cases is the injection of sclerosing or scarring materials, such as sodium morrhuate. This treatment is easily carried out and the procedure is in no way dangerous. For example, in a group of 233 patients, good results were obtained in two-thirds of them, and, in all but one out of ten, the results were fairly good. This method of treatment has no advantage insofar as speeding up the rate of removal of the growth is concerned, but it usually results in fewer scars. The results are best when the patient is treated early in life and the growth has been present for only a short time. The poorest results are obtained in those growths about the face and mouth.

When such a growth is present, it is advisable that it be carefully studied by a specialist who will determine the best method of treatment. In all instances, the earlier the treatment is given, the better will be the result.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. L.: I have had arthritis for two years and have been unable to walk, due to stiffness in the knees. Is there any way they can be straightened out?

Answer: An orthopedic specialist should be consulted, who will determine the best treatment in your case.

Surgery may be required to straighten the knees.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A British scientist finds laughing gas present over the United States. That's not surprising after 86 campaign speeches.

With one of the candidates it's difficult to tell whether he's auditioning for the first Tuesday in November or any Tuesday on radio.

But the campaign proves that any American boy can grow up with the idea of living in the White House. . .and for the first time it's frightening.

Jesse Jones believes that a President should be limited to one term of six years. If they can't have that some candidates will settle for four terms of four years.

Anyway the campaign is getting so interesting that two columnists have declared war and no reader has noticed it.

Play Bridge With
BARCLAY

DUMMY EMANCIPATED

AT LAST the dummy is really in the game. He has been emancipated by the new Laws, which took effect officially on October 1, and now has many rights he did not have before. It gives him an interest in the game, and provisions regarding him follow the same common sense lines as the rest of the new regulations.

As before, the dummy is supposed to lay down his hand after the opening lead, then refrain from comment and taking any active part in the play. But, unless he forfeits his rights, as he does by looking at any card in any other player's hand, he is allowed to give or obtain information as to fact or Law, question any player regarding a revoke, draw attention to any irregularity, or try to prevent one, such as a lead out of turn, by calling the player's attention to the fact that he is apparently about to commit one.

If the dummy, however, should purposely see any of the cards of the declarer or either defender, and thereafter is the first to draw attention to a defender's irregularity, the declarer may not enforce any penalty; if he warns declarer not to lead from the wrong hand, either defender may specify the hand from which the declarer shall lead; if he is the first to ask the declarer if a play from his hand is a revoke, and the card in consequence is withdrawn, either defender may require the declarer to substitute his highest or lowest correct card.

A card in any hand is played when named as the one its owner proposes to play, unless its designation is changed practically in the same breath. A card in any unfaced hand is played when it touches the table face upward after being detached from the other cards with apparent intent to play; a defender's card so detached is also played as soon as his partner sees its face. A card in dummy or any other faced card is played when touched unless for a purpose other than play either manifest or mentioned. A played card may not be withdrawn except in compliance with Laws governing irregularities.

If a defender prematurely leads to the next trick before his partner has played to the current trick, or plays out of rotation before his partner has played, the declarer may require his partner to play his highest or lowest card of the led suit or, if unable to follow suit, then a card of another specified suit, except that if declarer has played from both his holdings, either defender may play before his partner.

Any lead out of turn may be treated as a correct lead, and must be if the other side plays a card before attention is called to the irregularity. If the declarer exposes his hand after an opening lead by the wrong defender, and before dummy has spread any of his hand, the dummy becomes the declarer. If either defender requires declarer to retract his lead out of turn, the wrong card is replaced and if declarer has led from the wrong hand he must lead from the correct hand and, if he can, a card of the same suit. A defender's drawing attention to declarer's lead out of turn is equivalent to requiring its retraction.

If the declarer requires a defender to retract his lead out of turn, when it is declarer's lead the card led becomes a penalty card, and when it is the other defender's lead the declarer may either forbid the lead of that suit and allow the card to be picked up or else may treat the card as a penalty card and allow any to be led. A lead or play simultaneously with another's proper lead or play is deemed to be subsequent, and if a defender leads or plays two or more cards simultaneously, he may play either and the other becomes a penalty card.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

NO ONE COULD long live with Alexandria and not be exposed to realism. Millicent put down her comb and thought, horrified, But he never tried to find her until now!

Gail, at her desk, dialed Brad's private number at the laboratory. His secretary, an efficient, discreet man, not young, answered, and she asked, "Is Mr. Spencer free to come to the telephone, Mr. Jonas? This is Mrs. Spencer."

"I'm sorry," said Jonas, "but he went out over an hour ago and has not returned, Mrs. Spencer."

"It's terribly important," she said. "Is there any way I can reach him?"

"I hope no one is ill," he began, the urgency in her voice disturbed him, but she said quickly, "No . . . it's not that."

He speculated briefly, wondering, as he answered, "Mr. Spencer went to the Sturm apartment, Dr. Sturm isn't in the laboratory today. Her husband is ill. She telephoned after lunch and Mr. Spencer went as soon as he could, to see if he could be of assistance. Have you the Sturm number? If not, I'll give it to you."

"Never mind," Gail said, "but if he telephones or returns, will you ask him to call me? . . . Thank you, Mr. Jonas."

She hung up and sat there, shivering despite the warmth of the room, drawing idle circles on the fresh blotter with her pen. You weren't supposed to feel as she did. Honor thy father . . . but how could you honor a man whose life was built upon dishonor, who had darkened her formative years with the shadow of her mother's grief and disillusion? Blood was not thicker than water, she thought, the water under the bridge.

If he had come to her ill, beaten, exhibiting the slightest penitence, she would, she assured herself, be certain to experience the warmer impulse of pity, beyond what would have seemed mere obligation. But her father appeared in good health, was not defeated, and she was certain, regretted nothing. He was, in short, a cool and dangerous man.

She went to the dressing room, to rearrange her hair, to employ a little rouge, which she seldom used, and to redden her lips. She was making excuses not to go downstairs, and knew her own cowardice. What were they saying to each other? What was Alexandria thinking?

* * *

Alexandria, erect in a straight chair, was thinking that every step counted, the last as well as the first. And the initial conventional fencing was almost over, a brittle, tentative clashing, very courteous.

Rogers brought it to a conclusion, no blood drawn. He disliked wasting time, in certain circumstances; and judged that he need not waste it with this integrated old woman. He said, "You must wonder why I have reappeared, Mrs. Spencer?"

"Not at all," she denied sweetly. "I quite understand your anxiety to see Gail again."

"I'm afraid you do," he agreed, with a consciously rueful smile, and she thought, He has charm; he has been educated in many schools, some conventional. He has—an air. There is good blood here, she decided further, all the more dangerous in a bad man.

She said briskly, "The amenities can be dropped. The facts are clear. I'll state them briefly. You left Gail and your wife when Gail was a child. Since then you have evinced no interest in their welfare, or circumstances, until recently, when, I assume, you learned that your daughter had married my grandson."

"That is substantially correct," he agreed, with insolent admiration, "and, if I may use a vulgar phrase, Gail has done very well for herself, I am happy to say."

"Extremely well," conceded Alexandria mildly, "as my grandson is an exceptionally fine person; intelligent, sound, and I may add, realistic."

"Indeed? How gratifying," he murmured, and went on, "I was astonished to learn from Gail that her husband had tried to trace me. Had I been in her position, I would have concealed the existence of so unsatisfactory a parent."

"Gail is very honest," said Mrs. Spencer; "moreover, she was not certain that you did exist."

"'Tis true, 'tis pity; and pity 'tis 'tis true,'" quoted Mr. Rogers. "How I managed to survive, I don't know; nor why. Perhaps for this agreeable moment? Has Gail told you anything about me, Mrs. Spencer?"

"Nothing," answered Alexandria pleasantly, "that would lead me to believe your survival desirable."

"I admire your frankness. I meant, however, did she tell you anything of my antecedents? Come to think of it, she probably knows very little. My grandfather was an Englishman, one of a large family, land poor, with a good name and little else. An unfortunate younger son, he came to the States while his brothers entered the usual professions, army, navy and the church. He settled in Boston, married a distant connection, with some means, and prospered. My father, an only child, attended Harvard university. Upon his graduation, he did not see eye to eye with my grandfather. He had no interest in the family business, which was merchandising. This was clairvoyant of him, as the business was badly hit by the panic of ninety-three, never recovered, and vanished in the year I was born. Meantime, my father had gone west where he married a beautiful, unsuitable young woman, his landlady's niece. I am sure you can understand his parents' dismay," he said smoothly, "and the fact that he was cut off with the customary shilling. There wasn't much more, anyway. But my parents were hard working and thrifty. They sent me east, with enough to take me through the university and bring me to New York. They died in the influenza epidemic of eighteen. I am not, by the way, a hero of the First World War. I am happy to say that a football knee kept me out of it. The rest of the case history you know, or surmise. I have had good times and bad. I assure you that all graduates of my university, however desperate, do not go about crying 'Rinehart!' as I have seen depicted in the motion pictures. A college education is seldom legal tender for a tolerable meal."

"All very interesting," remarked Alexandria, "but beside the point. How much do you want, Mr. Rogers?"

"I do like a woman who arrives quickly at the right conclusion," he told her. "How much? Let me see . . . Not, I assure you, the small sum sufficient to keep me from the gutter. Incidentally, it isn't a bad place, once you get the hang of it. No, Mrs. Spencer. An assured income, upon which I would be able—shall we say—to travel. I have seen a good deal of the world, but not all, and at my age one doesn't join the navy."

"Ridiculous," she said shortly, "and out of the question."

"Are you sure?" he inquired. "Have you considered the publicity angle? I mentioned it to Gail, the human interest story, replete with sobs. She is an idealist, I'm afraid, as she believes no paper would print it. What do you think?"

"Much as you do," said Alexandria dryly.

"I suppose you could have me arrested," he said dreamily, "although upon what charges? Disturbing the Spencer peace? But that wouldn't read well either, would it?"

Andrews interrupted, bearing tea, and Rogers relaxed. "It's been a long time," he said, observing the silver, "this is very pleasant."

Alexandria asked how he preferred his tea. He told her and took the cup. He was thirsty, if not for tea. He found the lacing of rum tantalizing. Also, he was hungry. He debated this. Should he wolf the sandwiches, which might arouse her sense of duty, or nobly refrain, merely nibbling the unsatisfactory edges? Perhaps the effect would be the same. This was a very smart old girl. JOBS UPON A TIME

Margaret Chase Smith, the first woman ever elected to the United States senate without having first been appointed to fill an unexpired term, was once a school teacher in Skowhegan, Maine. Mrs. Chase then became an office executive on a newspaper, and later held executive positions in other business offices. She became a member of the 77th to 80th United States congresses from 1941, to serve until 1949. In 1930 the then Margaret Chase was married to Clyde H. Smith, who died in 1940. Her home is still in Skowhegan, Me.

Lauritz Melchior, star of the Metropolitan Opera company and motion picture actor and singer, is famous for his tenor roles. Melchior began his singing career as a baritone, however. He was born in Copenhagen, Denmark, and studied music from early childhood. At the age of 18 he began to study singing seriously, and four years later, while he was still at school, he was offered the baritone role of Germont in La Traviata. A friend finally convinced him that his voice was tenor, and by dint of study Melchior changed to the heroic range in which he is world famous. He has been in the United States since 1926. His first wife died, and his second wife is Maria Hacker, a former European film star.

When you buy a new lamp shade, remove the cellophane when you use the lamp shade. Heat from the lamp bulb and the changes in the air cause the cellophane to shrink. When it shrinks it pulls on the frame and bends it out of shape. Also, dirt sifts in between the strips of cellophane and leaves streaks that are sometimes impossible to remove.

WCTU Disputed On Number Of Drunken Women

CINCINNATI, Oct. 21—How many women alcoholics are there in the United States?

That question raised a verbal argument in Cincinnati today with the participants being the Women's Christian Temperance Union and the American Federation of Labor's Bartenders Union.

Miss Mary B. Ervin, president of the Ohio WCTU, told the organization's state convention last night that there are "680,000 women alcoholics in the United States."

She also declared that the dry campaigns since repeal of Prohibition have resulted in making "half of the nation bone dry".

Very promptly came the charge of "incorrect" from the AFL's Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders International Union headquarters here.

Frederick B. Sweet, who has the title of head of the research-education department of the union, was the authority.

Sweet declared that Yale university research showed that there are "only 750,000 Alcoholics in the United States and that of these only 125,000 are women."

Sweet said that less than 1.3 percent of those adults who drink become "alcoholics."

Meanwhile, the WCTU convetion drew nearer its close tomorrow. Former U. S. Sen. Clifton N. Howard, of Washington, spoke before the delegates last night He said the difficulty with the dry movements is that "nobody wants to talk about it, not even the churches."

'SPLENDID FOR NOTHING'

UN Activity This Week Hits Two Vital Issues

PARIS, Oct. 21—A widely-varied set of problems confronted the General Assembly of the United Nations in its series of crucial sessions in Paris this week.

Palestine again arose as a major issue with a new flareup of warfare in the Negev. The southern desert area between the Sinai peninsula of Egypt and what is commonly known as the Holy Land itself.

From the viewpoint of the Western world, the most important point in all UN proceedings was that of the Soviet blockade in Berlin, on which the Security Council will resume consideration today.

The renewal of warfare in Palestine brought back to attention the recent statement by British Foreign Secretary Bevin to the British Union of Manufacturers—one of the most important conservative groups in the commonwealth—that in the Middle East and in the Indian Ocean lies the essential and ultimate balance of the world.

* * *

THE CONTINUING assembly deliberations and their importance to the future of the world were emphasized obliquely by Jose Arce, the Argentine chief delegate to the United Nations.

Arce, who has been superseded in the Paris discussions by Dr. Juan Atilio Bramuglia, the foreign minister of his country, made his statement on ariving in Madrid for conferences with Generalissimo Franco and other Spanish officials.

He commented somewhat wryly on Franco's efforts to court Western sympathies, Marshall Plan assistance, and the entry of Spain into the United Nations.

Arce said:

"The organization is splendid for doing nothing, and splendid even for putting obstacles in the way of doing that."

As one of the architects of the world organization, Arce was not actually confessing failure by any means although he would be one of the first to admit that Palestine's Negev has handed the UN a problem that seems beyong the capacity of solution.

Partition and arbitration plans have traded the inhospitale area back and forth between Jews and Arabs.

The Jews regard it as an integral part of the new state of Israel; the Egyptians claim it as a natural extension of their own hereditary lands dating back to the Pharoahs; and King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan always has been represented as wanting not only this but all of Syria, too as part of a vast new middle eastern empire.

* * *

THE FACT of the matter is that the Negev is rich in untapped oil.

It therefore furnishes one of the chief pieces of ammunition with which opponents of British policies in the Middle East have criticized Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet—just as they harried Winston Churchill before him.

Their contention is that Britain subsidized the Arab Legion and enabled a condition to persist in Palestine that encouraged internal warfare and the threat of outside extension so that its material interests, through the medium of Abdullah, would remain paramount.

Navy Develops Camera-Carrying Rocket Outfit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—Camera-carrying rockets have photographed American terrain in areas ranging from 1,400 to 2,700 miles in length from 70 miles in the sky.

This was announced yesterday by the Navy Department in Washington.

The Navy said that the camera-carrying rockets have taken the largest terrain photographs ever made.

Cameras were attached to two rockets. One was a Navy Aerobee rocket which reached an altitude of 70 miles and the other was a German V-2 which went up 60 miles.

Although the rockets traveled at approximately 2,700 miles an hour the photographs are clear. Pictures taken at peak altitude are clear enough to allow identification of mountains, rivers, highways, railroads, air fields, towns and cities and show the curvature of the earth.

The Mosaic strip of photographs taken by two cameras mounted in the Aerobee show a strip of terrain estimated at 1,400 miles in length, stretching from Upper Wyoming deep into Mexico and 400 miles wide, for a total area of approximately 300,000 square miles.

* * *

IN THE V-2, a greater area was covered because the rocket was spinning slowly when it reached its peak altitude of 60 miles, thus allowing a circular sweep of individual photographs.

Distance along the horizon in the V-2 photograph is calculated at 2,700 miles. Total land area covered by the photograph was about 800,000 square miles.

The rockets were launched at White Sands proving grounds, Las Cruces, N. Mex.

There was an old theory that woman's place was in the home, but Commerce Department figures show that nowadays Mama is skipping about like a cat on a hot stove. Is it as courteous and helpful as you would like it to be? Is it prompt and efficient, too? Do you always find all items plainly and correctly price-tagged—as they should be? What in your opinion are we doing that we could do even better? Or what are we not doing that you feel we should do?

I INVITE YOU TO WRITE AND TELL ME HOW YOUR A&P MAY SERVE YOU BETTER

We of A&P want to make our stores the finest places of all in which to shop. That is why your suggestions, criticisms and opinions will be gratefully received and acknowledged. 'SPLENDID FOR NOTHING'

UN Activity This Week Hits Two Vital Issues

PARIS, Oct. 21—A widely-varied set of problems confronted the General Assembly of the United Nations in its series of crucial sessions in Paris this week.

Palestine again arose as a major issue with a new flareup of warfare in the Negev. The southern desert area between the Sinai peninsula of Egypt and what is commonly known as the Holy Land itself.

From the viewpoint of the Western world, the most important point in all UN proceedings was that of the Soviet blockade in Berlin, on which the Security Council will resume consideration today.

The renewal of warfare in Palestine brought back to attention the recent statement by British Foreign Secretary Bevin to the British Union of Manufacturers—one of the most important conservative groups in the commonwealth—that in the Middle East and in the Indian Ocean lies the essential and ultimate balance of the world.

* * *

THE CONTINUING assembly deliberations and their importance to the future of the world were emphasized obliquely by Jose Arce, the Argentine chief delegate to the United Nations.

Arce, who has been superseded in the Paris discussions by Dr. Juan Atilio Bramuglia, the foreign minister of his country, made his statement on ariving in Madrid for conferences with Generalissimo Franco and other Spanish officials.

He commented somewhat wryly on Franco's efforts to court Western sympathies, Marshall Plan assistance, and the entry of Spain into the United Nations.

Arce said:

"The organization is splendid for doing nothing, and splendid even for putting obstacles in the way of doing that."

As one of the architects of the world organization, Arce was not actually confessing failure by any means although he would be one of the first to admit that Palestine's Negev has handed the UN a problem that seems beyong the capacity of solution.

Partition and arbitration plans have traded the inhospitale area back and forth between Jews and Arabs.

The Jews regard it as an integral part of the new state of Israel; the Egyptians claim it as a natural extension of their own hereditary lands dating back to the Pharoahs; and King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan always has been represented as wanting not only this but all of Syria, too as part of a vast new middle eastern empire.

* * *

THE FACT of the matter is that the Negev is rich in untapped oil.

It therefore furnishes one of the chief pieces of ammunition with which opponents of British policies in the Middle East have criticized Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet—just as they harried Winston Churchill before him.

Their contention is that Britain subsidized the Arab Legion and enabled a condition to persist in Palestine that encouraged internal warfare and the threat of outside extension so that its material interests, through the medium of Abdullah, would remain paramount.

C Of C Convenes In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Oct. 21 — The Ohio Chamber of Commerce started a two-day annual meeting in Cincinnati with a pre-convention dinner in the Queen City Club last night.

The 55th session, scheduled for an official opening today, will find Cincinnati industrialists playing host to nearly 1,000 business executives from Ohio and nearby states.

The assembly will concern itself with domestic issues and international relations.

Key-noting the discussions will be addresses by Eugene C. Pulliam, publisher of the Indianapolis Star and Indianapolis News, and Dr. Felix Morley, Washington editor and educator.

Navy Develops Camera-Carrying Rocket Outfit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—Camera-carrying rockets have photographed American terrain in areas ranging from 1,400 to 2,700 miles in length from 70 miles in the sky.

This was announced yesterday by the Navy Department in Washington.

The Navy said that the camera-carrying rockets have taken the largest terrain photographs ever made.

Cameras were attached to two rockets. One was a Navy Aerobee rocket which reached an altitude of 70 miles and the other was a German V-2 which went up 60 miles.

Although the rockets traveled at approximately 2,700 miles an hour the photographs are clear. Pictures taken at peak altitude are clear enough to allow identification of mountains, rivers, highways, railroads, air fields, towns and cities and show the curvature of the earth.

The Mosaic strip of photographs taken by two cameras mounted in the Aerobee show a strip of terrain estimated at 1,400 miles in length, stretching from Upper Wyoming deep into Mexico and 400 miles wide, for a total area of approximately 300,000 square miles.

* * *

IN THE V-2, a greater area was covered because the rocket was spinning slowly when it reached its peak altitude of 60 miles, thus allowing a circular sweep of individual photographs.

Distance along the horizon in the V-2 photograph is calculated at 2,700 miles. Total land area covered by the photograph was about 800,000 square miles.

The rockets were launched at White Sands proving grounds, Las Cruces, N. Mex.

BEAUTIFUL AUTUMN

Bulgarian Doesn't Talk; He Has Good Reason, Too

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—Dimitri Karaghisov is a big, blond, handsome Bulgarian with a wide grin.

When you meet him, you get the impression that he now is a very happy guy. You also get the impression that, even so, he still is a very scared diplomat. After a while, you understand why.

Simitri is staying at the Carroll Arms hotel here in Washington, listed technically as being "in charge of the Pentagon."

Despite the confusing terminology of that phrase, it is supposed to indicate that he is under the protective care of U. S. military people, and not—as it might sound—that he has anything to do with the control of American national defense.

Even so, the phraseology can leave an observer slightly fussed. It could mean anything—or nothing.

When reporters drop around to see Dimitri and ask him questions, he waxes eloquent on "how beautiful it is here in the Autumn." Beyond that, he seems unable to get specific. Since most Washington reporters already are aware of the Capital's autumnal beauty, they naturally feel a bit frustrated when Dimitri declines to discuss the details of his unannounced arrival in America.

• • •

DIMITRI Karaghisov admitted that he had gone into hiding for something like four days after his resignation was turned in to the Bulgarian administration. It was at the end of those four days of hiding,he said, that he went aboard the Turkish ship that landed him in Baltimore last week.

It was obvious that Dimitri, despite his diplomatic training, was not happy at being talked into making these disclosures. But the boys had even more questions. Why had he resigned, they wanted to know.

Dimitri gulped: "I'm not a Communist," he said.

In half a dozen subsequently blurted sentences, he made it clear that he considered that statement reason enough for not returning to Bulgaria under the present Soviet satellite regime.

Having said that, he hurriedly added that he had many friends here whom he had met abroad, and insisted that he only came to the United States to visit his friends and plan his "future."

He also insisted that he had no idea why the nation's military authorities were seeing to it that he was protected. As far as he was concerned, he said the whole business was merely a matter of what he called "formalities."

But when the reporters started asking certain specific questions, he asked them to lay off, because his mother still is living in Sofia, under the Communist rule. His father, he added, somehow "disappeared" shortly after the Communists took over.

In words of one syllable, even though he personally was safe, Dimitri—thinking of his family—still was scared to death!

Attempt To Merge College Factions At Wilberforce

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21—A new move to re-unite Wilberforce university and the state-supported college of education and industrial arts at Wilberforce was belived in the making today.

Some 300 of the 400 students at Wilberforce university—now supported solely by the African Methodist Episcopal church — caravaned to Columbus from Xenia late yesterday and demonstrated noisily on the state house steps for more than an hour in protest against the separation of the two schools.

The yelling, cheering students carried banners proclaiming that "Herbert re-appointed the board that created a Jim Crow college," and "It happened Under Herbert."

The split between the church and the state schools occurred some months ago when the AME protested the refusal of Gov. Herbert to fire the college president.

The discharge would have to have been engineered through church-sponsored appointments to the joint board of trustees.

Since the split, the church school has lost every court round to the state supported college whose students now outnumber those of the university by approximately four to one.

Dixiecrats Given Six States

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 21—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) Ohio, went on record today with a prediction that the States' Rights party will carry six southern states in the November election and the Republicans three.

Taft told an audience in Little Rock last night the GOP would triumph in Florida, Virginia and Tennessee.

The senate leader declared that the discord in the Democratic party is so great that it would be impossible for them to carry out any promises if elected.

Lausche Takes His Campaign To Hometown

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21—Former Governor Frank J. Lausche carried his gubernatorial campaign into Cleveland today right on the heels of his opponent, Gov. Thomas J. Herbert.

Gov. Herbert, Republican candidate to succeed himself, spoke in the sixth city last night at banquet sponsored by the Cuyahoga County Republican organization. Nearly 2,000 party workers and aspirants to office attended.

Attacking the present state administration as allowing political interference with conservation, Lausche, speaking in Warren last night, presented his own six-point conservation program.

Ohio, the former mayor of Cleveland said, must "embark upon an ambitious conservation program with all conservation activities centered in one department."

After two days of strenuous campaigning in the East Central and Southeast parts of Ohio, Lausche had a relatively light day yesterday, with most addresses taking place in Warren and Niles.

Included in the former governor's six-point program were proposals on the subjects of stream pollution, depletion of Ohio's water table, lake front erosion, need for reforestation and renewal of impoverished soil.

In a prepared text for a radio broadcast and a rally, the Democratic candidate said that present state conservation activities were scattered inefficiently through many departments and that no adequate source of revenue have been assigned for an ambitious enough program.

• • •

"AN APPARENT reason for these failures of policy lies in political considerations," he continued. "When I was governor it was my constant object to guard conservation activities from political interference".

Meanwhile, Gov. Herbert, one of four principal speakers at the Cleveland rally—asked his Democratic candidate to stop talking in generalities about Ohio government economy and state exactly where he would reduce expenditures.

NSLI Policies To Be Mailed Ex-Servicemen

Plans now are being completed to begin preparation and distribution of National Service Life Insurance policies from the central office.

James P. Shea, Pickaway County veterans service officer, said the project would fall into two major phases which he outlined as follows:

First—Issuance of policies as part of the routine handling of future applications for conversion, renewal or new insurance on either term or permanent plans.

Second—Issuing policies for all permanent plan contracts now in force.

• • •

THE VETERANS' aide said he did not expect policies to be issued for the term insurance contracts already in force except if renewal or conversion action is taken.

Timing of the two operation phases depends primarily on the dates of completion of the job work being done by the government printing office.

Shea said the present schedule calls for issuing term policies from the central office first for renewals and term insurance.

Ballot Change Before Court

COLUMBUS, Oct 21 — The Ohio supreme court considered a request today from Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins for dismissal of a suit to rearrange the presidential ballot on voting machines in four counties.

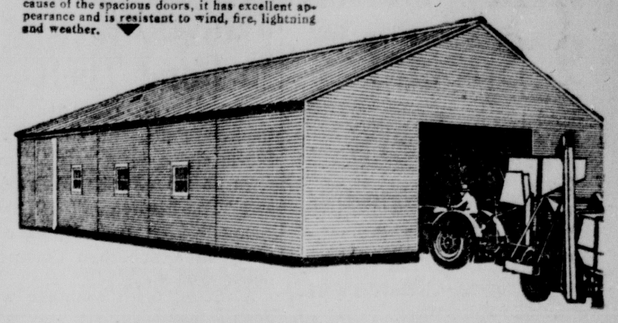

The counties involved were Clark, Lake, Lorain and Montgomery.

The suit was brought by Franklin County Progressive party chairman, William R. Gibbons, and Leonard Hinds of Shaker Heights. They represented the 25 electors for Henry A. Wallace.

BEAUTIFUL AUTUMN

Bulgarian Doesn't Talk; He Has Good Reason, Too

When you meet him, you get the impression that he now is a very happy guy. You also get the impression that, even so, he still is a very scared diplomat. After a while, you understand why.

Simitri is staying at the Carroll Arms hotel here in Washington, listed technically as being "in charge of the Pentagon."

Despite the confusing terminology of that phrase, it is supposed to indicate that he is under the protective care of U. S. military people, and not—as it might sound—that he has anything to do with the control of American national defense.

Even so, the phraseology can leave an observer slightly fussed. It could mean anything—or nothing.

When reporters drop around to see Dimitri and ask him questions, he waxes eloquent on "how beautiful it is here in the Autumn." Beyond that, he seems unable to get specific. Since most Washington reporters already are aware of the Capital's autumnal beauty, they naturally feel a bit frustrated when Dimitri declines to discuss the details of his unannounced arrival in America.

* * *

DIMITRI Karaghisov admitted that he had gone into hiding for something like four days after his resignation was turned in to the Bulgarian administration. It was at the end of those four days of hiding,he said, that he went aboard the Turkish ship that landed him in Baltimore last week.

It was obvious that Dimitri, despite his diplomatic training, was not happy at being talked into making these disclosures. But the boys had even more questions. Why had he resigned, they wanted to know.

Dimitri gulped: "I'm not a Communist," he said.

In half a dozen subsequently blurted sentences, he made it clear that he considered that statement reason enough for not returning to Bulgaria under the present Soviet satellite regime.

Having said that, he hurriedly added that he had many friends here whom he had met abroad, and insisted that he only came to the United States to visit his friends and plan his "future."

He also insisted that he had no idea why the nation's military authorities were seeing to it that he was protected. As far as he was concerned, he said the whole business was merely a matter of what he called "formalities."

But when the reporters started asking certain specific questions, he asked them to lay off, because his mother still is living in Sofia, under the Communist rule. His father, he added, somehow "disappeared" shortly after the Communists took over.

In words of one syllable, even though he personally was safe, Dimitri—thinking of his family—still was scared to death!

Attempt To Merge College Factions At Wilberforce

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21—A new move to re-unite Wilberforce university and the state-supported college of education and industrial arts at Wilberforce was believed in the making today.

Some 300 of the 400 students at Wilberforce university—now supported solely by the African Methodist Episcopal church—caravaned to Columbus from Xenia late yesterday and demonstrated noisily on the state house steps for more than an hour in protest against the separation of the two schools.

The yelling, cheering students carried banners proclaiming that "Herbert re-appointed the board that created a Jim Crow college," and "It happened Under Herbert."

The split between the church and the state schools occurred some months ago when the AME protested the refusal of Gov. Herbert to fire the college president.

The discharge would have to have been engineered through church-sponsored appointments to the joint board of trustees.

Since the split, the church school has lost every court round to the state supported college whose students now outnumber those of the university by approximately four to one.

Dixiecrats Given Six States

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 21—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) Ohio, went on record today with a prediction that the States' Rights party will carry six southern states in the November election and the Republicans three.

Taft told an audience in Little Rock last night the GOP would triumph in Florida, Virginia and Tennessee.

The senate leader declared that the discord in the Democratic party is so great that it would be impossible for them to carry out any promises if elected.

Lausche Takes His Campaign To Hometown

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21—Former Governor Frank J. Lausche carried his gubernatorial campaign into Cleveland today right on the heels of his opponent, Gov. Thomas J. Herbert.

Gov. Herbert, Republican candidate to succeed himself, spoke in the sixth city last night at banquet sponsored by the Cuyahoga County Republican organization. Nearly 2,000 party workers and aspirants to office attended.

Attacking the present state administration as allowing political interference with conservation, Lausche, speaking in Warren last night, presented his own six-point conservation program.

Ohio, the former mayor of Cleveland said, must "embark upon an ambitious conservation program with all conservation activities centered in one department."

After two days of strenuous campaigning in the East Central and Southeast parts of Ohio, Lausche had a relatively light day yesterday, with most addresses taking place in Warren and Niles.

Included in the former governor's six-point program were proposals on the subjects of stream pollution, depletion of Ohio's water table, lake front erosion, need for reforestation and renewal of impoverished soil.

In a prepared text for a radio broadcast and a rally, the Democratic candidate said that present state conservation activities were scattered inefficiently through many departments and that no adequate source of revenue have been assigned for an ambitious enough program.

* * *

"AN APPARENT reason for these failures of policy lies in political considerations," he continued. "When I was governor it was my constant object to guard conservation activities from political interference".

Meanwhile, Gov. Herbert, one of four principal speakers at the Cleveland rally—asked his Democratic candidate to stop talking in generalities about Ohio government economy and state exactly where he would reduce expenditures.

NSLI Policies To Be Mailed Ex-Servicemen

Plans now are being completed to begin preparation and distribution of National Service Life Insurance policies from the central office.

James P. Shea, Pickaway County veterans service officer, said the project would fall into two major phases which he outlined as follows:

First—Issuance of policies as part of the routine handling of future applications for conversion, renewal or new insurance on either term or permanent plans.

Second—Issuing policies for all permanent plan contracts now in force.

* * *

THE VETERANS' aide said he did not expect policies to be issued for the term insurance contracts already in force except if renewal or conversion action is taken.

Shea said the present schedule calls for issuing term policies from the central office first for renewals and term insurance.

Ballot Change Before Court

COLUMBUS, Oct 21 — The Ohio supreme court considered a request today from Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins for dismissal of a suit to rearrange the presidential ballot on voting machines in four counties.

The counties involved were Clark, Lake, Lorain and Montgomery.

The suit was brought by Franklin County Progressive party chairman, William R. Gibbons, and Leonard Hinds of Shaker Heights. They represented the 25 electors for Henry A. Wallace.

Heart Balm Suit Settled By Court

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 21 —The Florida supreme court upheld today a Palm Beach circuit court order directing hand lotion manufacturer, Andrew Jergens, to pay more than $25,000 in back alimony to his former wife, Mrs. Amy Branch Gallop.

The order covers payment of $625 monthly, plus interest, which were to have been paid from January, 1946, through January, 1948.

Mrs. Gallop had claimed it was due her under terms of a property settlement.

Jergens had countered with a complaint that he had been damaged to the extent of $264,000 by her failure to testify in a federal tax suit involving him in Cincinnati in 1940.

Palm Beach County circuit court decreed that it was "conjectural' whether testimony Mrs. Gallop might have given would have helped or hurt Jergens.

Mrs. Gallop, of Cincinnati and Palm Beach, re-married after her divorce from the lotion manufacturer and has since been widowed.

Mental Talks Open At OSU

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — The first Ohio symposium on mental deficiency opens tonight at Ohio State university, with a public meeting under the chairmanship of Dr. Lloyd M. Yepson, of New Jersey.

The three aims of the program are to increase the general public's understanding of mental deficiency, to make plans for the improvement of the state's institutional program, and to build a special education program at the community level.

Tonight's discussion will concern the nature and extent of mental deficiency.

Mahogany from Africa which has been imported into North America has not been, on the average, as heavy or as hard as Central American mahogany, and is not as close textured.

Police Hold 3 Juveniles In Bond Theft

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — Two thousand dollars in U. S. Savings Bonds stolen by a pair of juveniles known as "Mr. Bigshot" and "The Lieutenant" and their young lookout were drying out today in a suburban Columbus police station.

A diving team complete with deep sea apparatus recovered a strongbox containing the bonds, jewelry and other valuables yesterday from the waters of Alum Creek where "Mr. Bigshot," 17, and his two 14-year-old helpers had thrown it.

The boys were held at the Columbus juvenile center today. Police said they were certain the boys had committed 10 burglaries in Columbus and suburban Bexley, and possibly eight more, since last March.

The strongbox and its contents was stolen last March 10 from a Naval officer, Elliott Brown, now on duty in the Pacific.

The boys were picked up because they could not resist stealing from one another.

"The Lieutenant" was spotted hauling loot stolen from his chief, which later was traced to a burglary.

The boys told police they were interested only in money, so they dumped diamonds, rings, stickpins, watches, pistols and an undetermined amount of clothing into Alum Creek—where they probably will remain.

Radio Program Argument Fatal

RAVENNA, Oct. 21—A portage County farmer, who admitted killing his handyman with a shotgun in an argument concerning Jack Benny's radio program, was held in county jail today charged with second-degree murder.

The farmer, Jacob A. McDonald, 76, was bound over to the grand jury here yesterday after he was arraigned.

McDonald, in jail since his arrest for the slaying of Jackson Woodford Bailey, 68, Tuesday, said he would post a bond of $5,000 today.

McDonald told the sheriff that an argument that began last Sunday night, when he refused to let Bailey turn on Benny's radio program, resulted in the shooting.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh
I'm Glad We're "Different!"
There's a lot of difference of opinion in our county on the best kind of pasture. Some say alfalfa mixed with brome grass—others say mixed with oats or barley. But all agree that a mixture's better than a single crop.
I sometimes think people are the same way—and the strength of America is its mixture of so many different strains—some from one country, some from another—right down to little differences: like folks who have a taste for beer and those who prefer cider.
From where I sit, so long as we never become intolerant of one another's different tastes—so long as we live together with our differences, and even supplement them the way brome grass does alfalfa, then we're a mighty good crop!
So neighbor—enjoy your cider while I enjoy my beer! Vote for your candidate—I'll stand by mine! But never let our differences divide us!

Heart Balm Suit Settled By Court

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 21—The Florida supreme court upheld today a Palm Beach circuit court order directing hand lotion manufacturer, Andrew Jergens, to pay more than $25,000 in back alimony to his former wife, Mrs. Amy Branch Gallop.

The order covers payment of $625 monthly, plus interest, which were to have been paid from January, 1946, through January, 1948.

Mrs. Gallop had claimed it was due her under terms of a property settlement.

Jergens had countered with a complaint that he had been damaged to the extent of $264,000 by her failure to testify in a federal tax suit involving him in Cincinnati in 1940.

Palm Beach County circuit court decreed that it was "conjectural' whether testimony Mrs. Gallop might have given would have helped or hurt Jergens.

Mrs. Gallop, of Cincinnati and Palm Beach, re-married after her divorce from the lotion manufacturer and has since been widowed.

Mental Talks Open At OSU

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — The first Ohio symposium on mental deficiency opens tonight at Ohio State university, with a public meeting under the chairmanship of Dr. Lloyd M. Yepson, of New Jersey.

The three aims of the program are to increase the general public's understanding of mental deficiency, to make plans for the improvement of the state's institutional program, and to build a special education program at the community level.

Tonight's discussion will concern the nature and extent of mental deficiency.

Police Hold 3 Juveniles In Bond Theft

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — Two thousand dollars in U. S. Savings Bonds stolen by a pair of juveniles known as "Mr. Bigshot" and "The Lieutenant" and their young lookout were drying out today in a suburban Columbus police station.

A diving team complete with deep sea apparatus recovered a strongbox containing the bonds, jewelry and other valuables yesterday from the waters of Alum Creek where "Mr. Bigshot," 17, and his two 14-year-old helpers had thrown it.

The boys were held at the Columbus juvenile center today. Police said they were certain the boys had committed 10 burglaries in Columbus and suburban Bexley, and possibly eight more, since last March.

The strongbox and its contents was stolen last March 10 from a Naval officer, Elliott Brown, now on duty in the Pacific.

The boys were picked up because they could not resist stealing from one another.

"The Lieutenant" was spotted hauling loot stolen from his chief, which later was traced to a burglary.

The boys told police they were interested only in money, so they dumped diamonds, rings, stickpins, watches, pistols and an undetermined amount of clothing into Alum Creek—where they probably will remain.

Actress-Writer Dies Of Cancer

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 21 — Actress-Novelist Elissa Landi, 43, died of cancer early today in Kingston hospital. Death came shortly after 4 a. m.

Her husband, Curtiss Thomas, was with her when she died.

Miss Landi, reportedly the grand-daughter of Empress Elizabeth of Austria, had been in Kingston hospital for the last 10 days.

IN ORDER THAT THIS CHILD might be spared the possible stigma of being born in jail, authorities in Los Angeles moved Mrs. Beverly McLain to a hospital in time for the infant's arrival. The mother, with her husband, Ray, had been held on a bad check charge, Nurse Mary Lynch is shown attending the mother and daughter. (International Soundphoto)

Radio Program Argument Fatal

RAVENNA, Oct. 21—A portage County farmer, who admitted killing his handyman with a shotgun in an argument concerning Jack Benny's radio program, was held in county jail today charged with second-degree murder.

The farmer, Jacob A. McDonald, 76, was bound over to the grand jury here yesterday after he was arraigned.

McDonald, in jail since his arrest for the slaying of Jackson Woodford Bailey, 68, Tuesday, said he would post a bond of $5,000 today.

McDonald told the sheriff that an argument that began last Sunday night, when he refused to let Bailey turn on Benny's radio program, resulted in the shooting.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

I'm Glad We're "Different!"

There's a lot of difference of opinion in our county on the best kind of pasture. Some say alfalfa mixed with brome grass—others say mixed with oats or barley. But all agree that a mixture's better than a single crop.

I sometimes think people are the same way—and the strength of America is its mixture of so many different strains—some from one country, some from another—right down to little differences: like folks who have a taste for beer and those who prefer cider.

From where I sit, so long as we never become intolerant of one another's different tastes—so long as we live together with our differences, and even supplement them the way brome grass does alfalfa, then we're a mighty good crop!

So neighbor—enjoy your cider while I enjoy my beer! Vote for your candidate—I'll stand by mine! But never let our differences divide us!

Husband Freed In Death Case

LIMA, Oct. 21—Twenty-six-year-old Richard Earl Snyder was free of all charges today in the fatal stabbing of his wife as the Allen County grand jury refused to indict him.

Snyder had been in jail most of the time since Aug. 29, when the body of attractive 26-year-old Eloise Rose Snyder was found in her car in the driveway of a bulk filling station along a railroad siding. Snyder told authorities that they had parted earlier in the evening to attend different movies.

MARY KENNEDY, 19, who escaped from a Pittsburgh jail, is caught in New York and returned to Pennsylvania. The girl has been arrested many times on shoplifting charges. The jail was supposedly escape-proof. (International)

Cuyahoga Speeds Draft Exams

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21 — Officials of the Cuyahoga County draft boards announced today that draft examinations would be speeded up in Cleveland next week.

The move will be made, officials added, in view of the fact that the county's 14 draft boards faced an uphill battle to meet their initial quota of 132 men for November.

Fewer than 20 percent of the first 98 to be examined last week were found fit for military service.

Ohio Industrial Wage Averaged $53.38 In August

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — Ohio's industrial employers paid three percent higher wages in August than they did the preceding month.

The Ohio State university bureau of business research reported today that the average in August was $53.38, as against $51.96 in July. The August figure was eight percent higher than a year ago.

Metal products and stone, clay and glass products firms had the greatest increase of eight percent. Losses were shown by lumber products, eight percent mines and quarries, four percent, and a fractional decrease in vehicles.

Despite the decrease in lumber products, the classification remained the highest with an average of $73.40.

The higher wages offset a fractional decrease in employment with a result that payrolls showed a three percent increase. Average wages in the principal cities for August were:

Akron $57.22, up two percent; Canton $52.64, up 12 percent; Cincinnati $50.25, up one percent; Cleveland, up two percent; Columbus, $48.98, up two percent; Dayton $57.69, fractional decline; Toledo $58.34, up four percent, and Youngstown $59.39, up six percent.

40 Groups Lose Tax Exemptions

U.S. Cites 8 As Subversive

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 — The government today stripped special income tax exemption privileges from 40 national organizations, including eight alleged Communist fronts.

The Internal Revenue Bureau ordered the groups back on the tax roll because they failed to meet government qualifications. Previously they had been granted tax exemptions.

The eight organizations named have been cited by Attorney General Tom Clark as being Communist dominated. They are:

The Abraham Lincoln School, Chicago; the Samuel Adams School for Social Studies, Boston; the American Committee for European Workers' Relief, New York; and the George Washington Carver School, New York.

The Hollywood Writers Mobilization, Hollywood, Calif., the Ohio School of Social Sciences, Cleveland; the Philadelphia School of Social Science and Art, Philadelphia, and the School of Jewish Studies, New York.

* * *

THE ORDER also revoked the tax-free status of the front line fighters fund of the National Workers Order, New York. The IWO has been designated as an alleged Communist front.

A government official said that in order to qualify for tax exemption an organization must be non-profit, operate for charitable, religious or education purposes and not be involved in propaganda or lobbying activities.

Internal Revenue spokesman added that the move is aimed largely at persons who contribute to the organizations and who list their contributions on their income tax forms.

Hereafter, he said contributors must pay taxes on any donations they make to the 40 groups.

Husband Freed In Death Case

LIMA, Oct. 21—Twenty-six-year-old Richard Earl Snyder was free of all charges today in the fatal stabbing of his wife as the Allen County grand jury refused to indict him.

Snyder had been in jail most of the time since Aug. 29, when the body of attractive 26-year-old Eloise Rose Snyder was found in her car in the driveway of a bulk filling station along a railroad siding. Snyder told authorities that they had parted earlier in the evening to attend different movies.

MARY KENNEDY, 19, who escaped from a Pittsburgh jail, is caught in New York and returned to Pennsylvania. The girl has been arrested many times on shoplifting charges. The jail was supposedly escape-proof. (International)

Cuyahoga Speeds Draft Exams

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21 — Officials of the Cuyahoga County draft boards announced today that draft examinations would be speeded up in Cleveland next week.

The move will be made, officials added, in view of the fact that the county's 14 draft boards faced an uphill battle to meet their initial quota of 132 men for November.

Fewer than 20 percent of the first 98 to be examined last week were found fit for military service.

Ohio Industrial Wage Averaged $53.38 In August

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — Ohio's industrial employers paid three percent higher wages in August than they did the preceding month.

The Ohio State university bureau of business research reported today that the average in August was $53.38, as against $51.96 in July. The August figure was eight percent higher than a year ago.

Metal products and stone, clay and glass products firms had the greatest increase of eight percent. Losses were shown by lumber products, eight percent mines and quarries, four percent, and a fractional decrease in vehicles.

Despite the decrease in lumber products, the classification remained the highest with an average of $73.40.

The higher wages offset a fractional decrease in employment with a result that payrolls showed a three percent increase. Average wages in the principal cities for August were:

Akron $57.22, up two percent; Canton $52.64, up 12 percent; Cincinnati $50.25, up one percent; Cleveland, up two percent; Columbus, $48.98, up two percent; Dayton $57.69, fractional decline; Toledo $58.34, up four percent, and Youngstown $59.39, up six percent.

40 Groups Lose Tax Exemptions

U.S. Cites 8 As Subversive

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 — The government today stripped special income tax exemption privileges from 40 national organizations, including eight alleged Communist fronts.

The Internal Revenue Bureau ordered the groups back on the tax roll because they failed to meet government qualifications. Previously they had been granted tax exemptions.

The eight organizations named have been cited by Attorney General Tom Clark as being Communist dominated. They are:

The Abraham Lincoln School, Chicago; the Samuel Adams School for Social Studies, Boston; the American Committee for European Workers' Relief, New York; and the George Washington Carver School, New York.

The Hollywood Writers Mobilization, Hollywood, Calif., the Ohio School of Social Sciences, Cleveland; the Philadelphia School of Social Science and Art, Philadelphia, and the School of Jewish Studies, New York.

* * *

THE ORDER also revoked the tax-free status of the front line fighters fund of the National Workers Order, New York. The IWO has been designated as an alleged Communist front.

A government official said that in order to qualify for tax exemption an organization must be non-profit, operate for charitable, religious or education purposes and not be involved in propaganda or lobbying activities.

Internal Revenue spokesman added that the move is aimed largely at persons who contribute to the organizations and who list their contributions on their income tax forms.

Hereafter, he said contributors must pay taxes on any donations they make to the 40 groups.

A United States Senator represents his state. By no stretch of the imagination can it be said that he represents the whole United States nor the people thereof.

The Senate, even more than the House of Representatives, is the concern of each particular state, and for most of American history Senators were elected by state legislatures.

That being so, the people of no state want outside interference in the election of its United States Senators. The activities against Senator Revercomb generally originate outside West Virginia and therefore are offensive to the people of West Virginia.

Up in the Bronx, for instance, a committee was organized which led to the impression that the new state of Israel indorsed Leo Isacson. Obviously that was not true and the representatives of that country were quick to disclaim any interference in American politics. A Progressive or American Labor Party indorsement means that the man who takes it is unworthy of election.

Williams May Stay In Boston

Demands Of Fans Grow Stronger

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 — Williams, who reportedly was fered as trading bait by the ton Red Sox, probably will main in Boston next season cause the fans demand it.

Reports a few days ago sa Williams was headed for D troit in exchange for Pitch Hal Newhouser and Thir baseman George Kell caus the greatest uproar in Bost since all that tea was toss in the harbor.

Williams has had his ups a downs in Boston while he w growing up as a ball player a some of the customers still fuse to accept him.

However, the anti-Willia clique has diminished in nu bers year by year. The Red S fans, as a group, want him stay in Boston.

The lanky outfielder has completed one of the greate seasons of his career. He led league in hitting, and in doubl in bases on balls and made least 25 hits to leftfield to bre up the shift against him.

* * *

HE ALSO was at his best the close of the campaign wh the Red Sox were carrying pennant race to a playoff the Cleveland Indians.

In fact, the Detroit Tigers New York Yankees would li very much to have him.

The Red Sox are in no positi to lose prestige with Bost baseball fans in view of the fa that the Braves won the Natio League pennant last season. T Red Sox need all the attractio they can get and Williams Number One on that partic hit parade.

Without Williams, the Re Sox would be one of the dul est, most uninteresting ba clubs in the business. Wit Williams, they have an at traction which pulls customer through the gates where eve they play.

It is interesting to know, ho ever, that if he remains in Bo ton, as seems likely now, it strictly because Tom Yawke can't afford to let him go.

The Boston fans recall th Tris Speaker and Babe Ru were sold and attained fam elsewhere. They accept W liams, even in his tryin moments, as a sort of Boston i stitution. He's never played an where else in the major league

He is not a better ballplaye than he was before, but he more popular, and it is only fi ting that he stay where he is a the greatest drawing card i Boston baseball history.

Shakeup Possible In Mid-American Grid Standings

OXFORD, Oct. 21 — Possibility of a shakeup among the leaders of the Mid-American Conference was seen today as a possibility in this week's schedule.

Currently split three ways between the defending champion and two members who were not eligible for a title claim last year, the lead is safe for only one team.

However, the other two leaders—Cincinnati and Miami could be knocked out of the top spot.

Cincinnati, the defending champ, risks its share of the title in a game with Butler at Indianapolis. Miami, currently unbeaten though twice-tied in two seasons, meets Ohio university at Athens.

Western Reserve, the other Mid-American entry, plays outside the conference, entertaining Kent State university at Cleveland.

Indians Batboy Gets Rich Fast

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21 — Sixteen-year-old Billy Sheridan has acquired a new name—"Ol' Moneybags."

Billy, batboy for the Cleveland Indians during the past season, was voted a quarter-share of the World Series pie—a slice which amounts to about $1,693.

In addition to this cut, he was given a $1,000 check by President Bill Veeck for winning the contest which got him the batboy job. He was also tipped generously by the players, so for the season he made nearly $3,000—a fabulous fortune for a 16-year-old.

Sokolsky's

A United States Senator represents his state. By no stretch of the imagination can it be said that he represents the whole United States nor the people thereof.

The Senate, even more than the House of Representatives, is the concern of each particular state, and for most of American history Senators were elected by state legislatures.

That being so, the people of no state want outside interference in the election of its United States Senators. The activities against Senator Revercomb generally originate outside West Virginia and therefore are offensive to the people of West Virginia.

Up in the Bronx, for instance, a committee was organized which led to the impression that the new state of Israel indorsed Leo Isacson. Obviously that was not true and the representatives of that country were quick to disclaim any interference in American politics. A Progressive or American Labor Party indorsement means that the man who takes it is unworthy of election.

Williams May Stay In Boston

Demands Of Fans Grow Stronger

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 — Williams, who reportedly was fered as trading bait by the ton Red Sox, probably will main in Boston next season cause the fans demand it.

Reports a few days ago sa Williams was headed for D troit in exchange for Pitch Hal Newhouser and Thir baseman George Kell caus the greatest uproar in Bost since all that tea was toss in the harbor.

Williams has had his ups downs in Boston while he w growing up as a ball player some of the customers still fuse to accept him.

However, the anti-Willia clique has diminished in nu bers year by year. The Red S fans, as a group, want him stay in Boston.

The lanky outfielder has completed one of the greate seasons of his career. He led league in hitting, and in doubl in bases on balls and made least 25 hits to leftfield to bre up the shift against him.

* * *

HE ALSO was at his best the close of the campaign wh the Red Sox were carrying pennant race to a playoff the Cleveland Indians.

In fact, the Detroit Tigers New York Yankees would li very much to have him.

The Red Sox are in no positi to lose prestige with Bost baseball fans in view of the f that the Braves won the Natio League pennant last season. T Red Sox need all the attractio they can get and William Number One on that partic hit parade.

Without Williams, the Re Sox would be one of the dul est, most uninteresting ba clubs in the business. Wit Williams, they have an at traction which pulls customer through the gates where eve they play.

It is interesting to know, ho ever, that if he remains in Bo ton, as seems likely now, it strictly because Tom Yawke can't afford to let him go.

The Boston fans recall th Tris Speaker and Babe Ru were sold and attained fam elsewhere. They accept W liams, even in his tryin moments, as a sort of Boston i stitution. He's never played an where else in the major league

He is not a better ballplaye than he was before, but he more popular, and it is only fi ting that he stay where he is a the greatest drawing card Boston baseball history.

Shakeup Possible In Mid-American Grid Standings

OXFORD, Oct. 21 — Possibil ity of a shakeup among th leaders of the Mid-American Conference was seen today as a possibility in this week's sched ule.

Currently split three ways be tween the defending champion and two members who were not eligible for a title claim last year, the lead is safe for only one team.

However, the other two leaders—Cincinnati and Miami could be knocked out of the top spot.

Cincinnati, the defending champ, risks its share of the title in a game with Butler at Indianapolis. Miami, currently unbeaten though twice-tied in two seasons, meets Ohio university at Athens.

Western Reserve, the other Mid-American entry, plays outside the conference, entertaining Kent State university at Cleveland.

Indians Batboy Gets Rich Fast

Billy, batboy for the Cleveland Indians during the past season, was voted a quarter-share of the World Series pie—a slice which amounts to about $1,693.

In addition to this cut, he was given a $1,000 check by President Bill Veeck for winning the contest which got him the batboy job. He was also tipped generously by the players, so for the season he made nearly $3,000—a fabulous fortune for a 16-year-old.

2nd League Win Is Eyed By Locals

Wilmington Due Here Tonight

Circleville high school's football team will try for its second South Central Ohio League win of its current undefeated season Thursday night when it plays host to the Wilmington Hurricane.

The locals have swept through their first five tilts unscathed, registering wins over Holy Rosary, Hillsboro, Westerville, Washington Portsmouth and Newcomerstown.

The Hurricane 11 appears an easy conquest for the Tiger aggregation—on paper, that is—having lost 58-0 to Washington C. H. in its season opener, and subsequently having dropped ball games. Hillsboro, 13-7, and Lockland, 41-6. Circleville topped Hillsboro, 14-0.

Hurricane aggregations always have been the toughest Tiger foes in recent years, however, besting the locals three of five times in the last five years to cop SCO league championships.

• • •

BOB MCALISTER, starting quarterback on the Tiger team, will ride the bench for the Thursday encounter, having suffered an attack of appendicitis following the Monday workout. Tom Eveland will get the nod as the locals' field general.

The team was to have been given one of the largest and most demonstrative "pep rallies" of the season Thursday afternoon when the CHS marching band teamed together with the schools mixed glee club, girl's sextet and cheerleaders to boost the Red and Black clad.

Coach Steve Brudzinski was to introduce members of the team to the Pumpkin Show crowd, following which the cheerleaders were introduced to lead school cheers.

Barons Hoping To Make Hornets Victim No. 32

By International News Service

The fighting Cleveland Barons, beaten only once in their last 40 American Hockey League games, meet the Pittsburgh Hornets in their first home game of the regular season tonight in Cleveland Arena.

The Barons, winners of the Calder Cup trophy last season, were undefeated in their last 27 games of the regular 1947-48 schedule, and have added four more victories to that mark. They will seek No. 32 tonight against the hornets.

Cleveland's only league defeat in its last 40 games occurred in the play-offs last Spring, in which they took eight out of nine from Providence and Buffalo.

Only one other game is scheduled in the American League tonight. New Haven goes to Indianapolis.

• • •

The St. Louis Flyers moved into second place in the western division of the league by downing the New Haven Ramblers, 4-1. The Flyers are now two points ahead of the third-place Hornets.

In the National League, Boston moved into a first-place tie with the Detroit Red Wings by trouncing Chicago, 8-3.

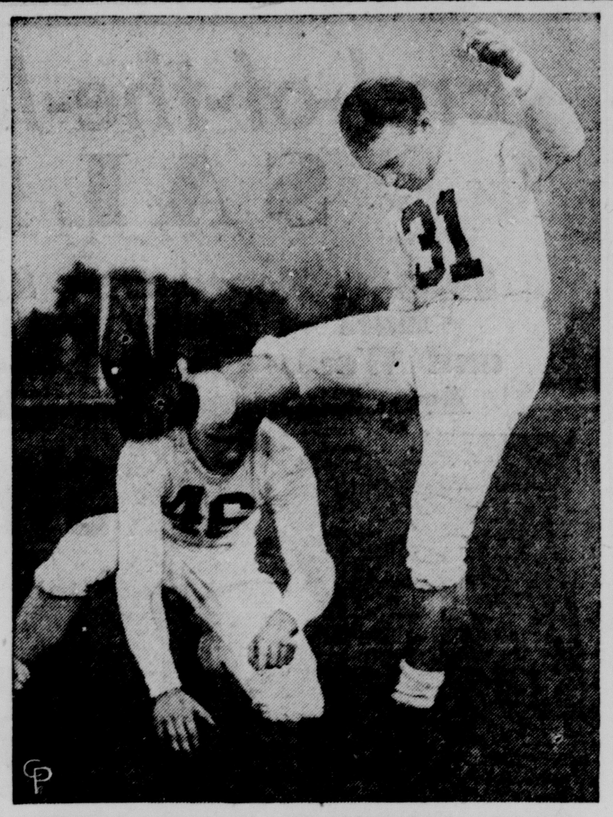

Cage Carnival Parley Called

Final plans for a Pickaway County high school basketball carnival will be completed Monday at a meeting of coaches and superintendents in Ashville high school.

Tentative plans already formulated call for a carnival in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum Nov. 1 with all 10 county league teams participating.

The carnival will be set up so that each of the 10 teams will play a league opponent for one period, all officiating to be done by members of the Pickaway County Official's Association.

The carnival is to be staged in order to acquaint fans with the home teams, opposition strength and officials.

ALTHOUGH he has never played college football before, Carl Sturges has turned out to be a kicking specialist for the Penn State team. Sturges has booted 14 out of 15 extra points thus far. He is a 24-year-old ex-soldier. Bill Luther holds the ball. (International)

SATURDAY HANGOVER DUE

More Upsets Said Ahead On Ohio Schoolboy Card

By International News Service

The feared upset—generally defined as a win by an underdog, under-rated team over a favorite, superior squad—was no doubt worrying many a coach of Ohio's better high school elevens today.

The weekend schedule in no event pits one of the various high-ranking elevens against another of like caliber but it does allow for what may prove on Saturday morning the recording of several surprises.

Canton McKinley and Alliance, both boasting five straight victories, take on Steubenville and Akron Central, respectively. The co-leaders of the International News Service weekly schoolboy poll are the definite favorites but still have to outscore the opposition.

McKinley's encounter with the Big Red of Steubenville may give a more clear picture also of just how strong is the highly-regarded third-ranking Middletown eleven. The Middies defeated Steubenville, 40 to 0, last week and the Canton eleven will be out to do as well or better.

• • •

MIDDLETOWN, meanwhile, travels to Lima Central and Seraph Pope's boys very possibly could give the invaders a better battle than anticipated.

Fourth-ranking Toledo Waite, meanwhile, plays in its own back yard with Woodward putting up the opposition. The other Butler County eleven—fifth-ranking Hamilton—takes on Springfield in a game calculated to test the Big Blue's fitness for future honors.

Springfield lost a close one to a potent Mansfield club last week and a good showing could give Hamilton followers something to shout about. Conversely, a loss could knock Hamilton right out of the mythical running.

Mansfield, currently rated in No. 6 spot with a 4-1 record, will be facing a Stark County eleven attempting to bounce back from its loss to Alliance.

Other top schoolboy games of the week pit Newark against Lancaster; send undefeated Ironton to Dayton Chaminade; have Columbus West hosting New Philadelphia, and sees Martins Ferry clashing with Bellaire in a traditional neighbor-eat-neighbor battle.

Defiance Set For Stiff Card

DEFIANCE, Oct. 21 — Defiance high school football squad faced today the unusual task of playing three football games in eight days.

Defiance will play at Fostoria Friday night; entertain Delta Monday night and go to Liberty Center, Oct. 29. Defiance has played only one game this season because a polio scare prompted three cancellations and two postponements.

Zaharias, Wall Pacing Tourney

FORT SMITH, Ark., Oct. 21—Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Mary Agnes Wall led the way today into the championship flight of the Hardcrabble Country Club's women's golf tournament.

The Denver pro and the Menominee, Mich., amateur tied for medalist honors with a 2-over-men's-par 73 in yesterday's 18-hole qualifying round over the Fort Smith course.

Amos Is Favored Over The Kid

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — Bob Amos of Detroit was an 11-to-5 favorite in his light heavyweight match in Columbus tonight against Alabama Kid of Columbus.

The two fighters were to weigh in for the 10-round scrap this afternoon. The Kid at 177 is expected to have a weight edge.

Ohio College Grid Briefs

By International News Service

ALLIANCE, Oct. 21—It will be homecoming day for Mount Union college Saturday with the invading Akron University Zippers providing the opposition. In 34 previous meetings Mt. Union has won 18, the Zippers 15, with one contest ending in a tie.

KENT, Oct. 21—Kent State, one of the five undefeated-untied football teams in Ohio, prepared an aerial attack today for their invasion of Cleveland's League Park Saturday. Western Reserve university, the Kent opposition, showed a weak pass defense in losing to Ohio university last Saturday, hence the emphasis on passing.

WILBERFORCE, Oct. 21 — Wilberforce university gridders, fresh from a 7 to 0 victory over Grambling college, worked out in final scrimmages today before taking a trip to Washington and a game with Tennessee State Saturday night.

GRANVILLE, Oct. 21 — Undefeated Denison, boasting a 40-point game average, hopes to chalk up Victory No. 15 in a row against Oberlin at Oberlin's homecoming Saturday. The Big Red came out of last week's win over Wooster without major injury.

BOWLING GREEN, Oct. 21—Coach Bob Whittaker sent his undefeated Bowling Green squad through a stiff session of fundamentals today in preparation for Saturday's homecoming tussle with Baldwin-Wallace.

TIFFIN, Oct. 21—Coach Paul Hoerneman predicted today that his Heidelberg squad "will have a tough time of it" in its invasion of Wittenberg Saturday night. He said scouting reports show the Lutherans have lots of speed and power.

Sell-Out Crowd Said Assured At Badger Tilt

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21—A sell-out—meaning a crowd of 70,000 or more—was assured today for Saturday's Big Nine clash between Ohio State and Wisconsin.

Only 300 tickets in the south bleachers remained for the pigskin tussle. Ohio State, despite all Coach Wesley Fesler could do to guard against over-confidence, ruled an overwhelming favorite over the oft-beaten Badgers.

Fesler reported that Quarterback Pete Perini, whose long punts and sterling line backing were missing from the Indiana game, would be ready for action Saturday.

Brownies Plan Offense For Yankee Battle

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21 — The Cleveland Browns planned their method of attack today in preparation for their tilt with the New York Yankees in Cleveland Municipal Stadium Sunday.

The Yanks, who have given the Browns their toughest competition the last two years, already have lost five games and the Clevelanders aren't too worried about the outcome.

Going into Sunday's game, Marion Motley, the big gun of the Browns' ground offensive, seems headed for his best performance in three years of professional football, according to statistics issued at the halfway point of the All-America Football Conference campaign.

The Browns' bomber leads the conference in the rushing department with a total of 631 yards in 98 cracks at the line for an average of 6.44 yards per carry. Already he has gained more yardage than he did in his entire 1946 campaign when he advanced the ball 601 yards on 73 attempts.

Last season, Motley amassed a total of 889 yards on 146 attempts—a mark which he is certain to surpass this year barring injury.

2nd League Win Is Eyed By Locals

Wilmington Due Here Tonight

Circleville high school's football team will try for its second South Central Ohio League win of its current undefeated season Thursday night when it plays host to the Wilmington Hurricane.

The locals have swept through their first five tilts unscathed, registering wins over Holy Rosary, Hillsboro, Westerville, Washington Portsmouth and Newcomerstown.

The Hurricane 11 appears an easy conquest for the Tiger aggregation—on paper, that is—having lost 58-0 to Washington C. H. in its season opener, and subsequently having dropped ball games. Hillsboro, 13-7, and Lockland, 41-6. Circleville topped Hillsboro, 14-0.

Hurricane aggregations always have been the toughest Tiger foes in recent years, however, besting the locals three of five times in the last five years to cop SCO league championships.

• • •

BOB MCALISTER, starting quarterback on the Tiger team, will ride the bench for the Thursday encounter, having suffered an attack of appendicitis following the Monday workout. Tom Eveland will get the nod as the locals' field general.

The team was to have been given one of the largest and most demonstrative "pep rallies" of the season Thursday afternoon when the CHS marching band teamed together with the schools mixed glee club, girl's sextet and cheerleaders to boost the Red and Black clad.

Coach Steve Brudzinski was to introduce members of the team to the Pumpkin Show crowd, following which the cheerleaders were introduced to lead school cheers.

Barons Hoping To Make Hornets Victim No. 32

By International News Service

The fighting Cleveland Barons, beaten only once in their last 40 American Hockey League games, meet the Pittsburgh Hornets in their first home game of the regular season tonight in Cleveland Arena.

The Barons, winners of the Calder Cup trophy last season, were undefeated in their last 27 games of the regular 1947-48 schedule, and have added four more victories to that mark. They will seek No. 32 tonight against the hornets.

Cleveland's only league defeat in its last 40 games occurred in the play-offs last Spring, in which they took eight out of nine from Providence and Buffalo.

Only one other game is scheduled in the American League tonight. New Haven goes to Indianapolis.

• • •

The St. Louis Flyers moved into second place in the western division of the league by downing the New Haven Ramblers, 4-1. The Flyers are now two points ahead of the third-place Hornets.

In the National League, Boston moved into a first-place tie with the Detroit Red Wings by trouncing Chicago, 8-3.

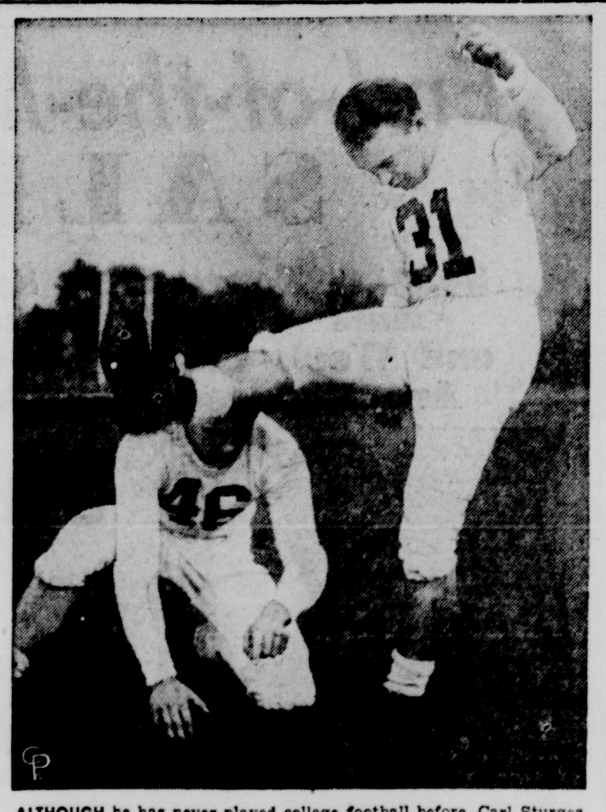

Cage Carnival Parley Called

Final plans for a Pickaway County high school basketball carnival will be completed Monday at a meeting of coaches and superintendents in Ashville high school.

Tentative plans already formulated call for a carnival in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum Nov. 1 with all 10 county league teams participating.

The carnival will be set up so that each of the 10 teams will play a league opponent for one period, all officiating to be done by members of the Pickaway County Official's Association.

The carnival is to be staged in order to acquaint fans with the home teams, opposition strength and officials.

ALTHOUGH he has never played college football before, Carl Sturges has turned out to be a kicking specialist for the Penn State team. Sturges has booted 14 out of 15 extra points thus far. He is a 24-year-old ex-soldier. Bill Luther holds the ball. (International)

SATURDAY HANGOVER DUE

More Upsets Said Ahead On Ohio Schoolboy Card

By International News Service

The feared upset—generally defined as a win by an underdog, under-rated team over a favorite, superior squad—was no doubt worrying many a coach of Ohio's better high school elevens today.

The weekend schedule in no event pits one of the various high-ranking elevens against another of like caliber but it does allow for what may prove on Saturday morning the recording of several surprises.

Canton McKinley and Alliance, both boasting five straight victories, take on Steubenville and Akron Central, respectively. The co-leaders of the International News Service weekly schoolboy poll are the definite favorites but still have to outscore the opposition.

McKinley's encounter with the Big Red of Steubenville may give a more clear picture also of just how strong is the highly-regarded third-ranking Middletown eleven. The Middies defeated Steubenville, 40 to 0, last week and the Canton eleven will be out to do as well or better.

• • •

MIDDLETOWN, meanwhile, travels to Lima Central and Seraph Pope's boys very possibly could give the invaders a better battle than anticipated.

Fourth-ranking Toledo Waite, meanwhile, plays in its own back yard with Woodward putting up the opposition. The other Butler County eleven—fifth-ranking Hamilton—takes on Springfield in a game calculated to test the Big Blue's fitness for future honors.

Springfield lost a close one to a potent Mansfield club last week and a good showing could give Hamilton followers something to shout about. Conversely, a loss could knock Hamilton right out of the mythical running.

Mansfield, currently rated in No. 6 spot with a 4-1 record, will be facing a Stark County eleven attempting to bounce back from its loss to Alliance.

Other top schoolboy games of the week pit Newark against Lancaster; send undefeated Ironton to Dayton Chaminade; have Columbus West hosting New Philadelphia, and sees Martins Ferry clashing with Bellaire in a traditional neighbor-eat-neighbor battle.

Defiance Set For Stiff Card

DEFIANCE, Oct. 21 — Defiance high school football squad faced today the unusual task of playing three football games in eight days.

Defiance will play at Fostoria Friday night; entertain Delta Monday night and go to Liberty Center, Oct. 29. Defiance has played only one game this season because a polio scare prompted three cancellations and two postponements.

Zaharias, Wall Pacing Tourney

FORT SMITH, Ark., Oct. 21—Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Mary Agnes Wall led the way today into the championship flight of the Hardcrabble Country Club's women's golf tournament.

The Denver pro and the Menominee, Mich., amateur tied for medalist honors with a 2-over-men's-par 73 in yesterday's 18-hole qualifying round over the Fort Smith course.

Amos Is Favored Over The Kid

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21 — Bob Amos of Detroit was an 11-to-5 favorite in his light heavyweight match in Columbus tonight against Alabama Kid of Columbus.

The two fighters were to weigh in for the 10-round scrap this afternoon. The Kid at 177 is expected to have a weight edge.

Ohio College Grid Briefs

By International News Service

ALLIANCE, Oct. 21—It will be homecoming day for Mount Union college Saturday with the invading Akron University Zippers providing the opposition. In 34 previous meetings Mt. Union has won 18, the Zippers 15, with one contest ending in a tie.

KENT, Oct. 21—Kent State, one of the five undefeated-untied football teams in Ohio, prepared an aerial attack today for their invasion of Cleveland's League Park Saturday. Western Reserve university, the Kent opposition, showed a weak pass defense in losing to Ohio university last Saturday, hence the emphasis on passing.

WILBERFORCE, Oct. 21 — Wilberforce university gridders, fresh from a 7 to 0 victory over Grambling college, worked out in final scrimmages today before taking a trip to Washington and a game with Tennessee State Saturday night.

GRANVILLE, Oct. 21 — Undefeated Denison, boasting a 40-point game average, hopes to chalk up Victory No. 15 in a row against Oberlin at Oberlin's homecoming Saturday. The Big Red came out of last week's win over Wooster without major injury.

BOWLING GREEN, Oct. 21—Coach Bob Whittaker sent his undefeated Bowling Green squad through a stiff session of fundamentals today in preparation for Saturday's homecoming tussle with Baldwin-Wallace.

TIFFIN, Oct. 21—Coach Paul Hoerneman predicted today that his Heidelberg squad "will have a tough time of it" in its invasion of Wittenberg Saturday night. He said scouting reports show the Lutherans have lots of speed and power.

Sell-Out Crowd Said Assured At Badger Tilt

COLUMBUS, Oct. 21—A sell-out—meaning a crowd of 70,000 or more—was assured today for Saturday's Big Nine clash between Ohio State and Wisconsin.

Only 300 tickets in the south bleachers remained for the pigskin tussle. Ohio State, despite all Coach Wesley Fesler could do to guard against over-confidence, ruled an overwhelming favorite over the oft-beaten Badgers.

Fesler reported that Quarterback Pete Perini, whose long punts and sterling line backing were missing from the Indiana game, would be ready for action Saturday.

Brownies Plan Offense For Yankee Battle

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21 — The Cleveland Browns planned their method of attack today in preparation for their tilt with the New York Yankees in Cleveland Municipal Stadium Sunday.

The Yanks, who have given the Browns their toughest competition the last two years, already have lost five games and the Clevelanders aren't too worried about the outcome.

Going into Sunday's game, Marion Motley, the big gun of the Browns' ground offensive, seems headed for his best performance in three years of professional football, according to statistics issued at the halfway point of the All-America Football Conference campaign.

The Browns' bomber leads the conference in the rushing department with a total of 631 yards in 98 cracks at the line for an average of 6.44 yards per carry. Already he has gained more yardage than he did in his entire 1946 campaign when he advanced the ball 601 yards on 73 attempts.

Last season, Motley amassed a total of 889 yards on 146 attempts—a mark which he is certain to surpass this year barring injury.

Display Shows Circleville In 1836

"Circleville in 1836" is the title of one of the most carefully-planned window displays of the 1948 Pumpkin Show.

The display may be seen in the J. C. Penney Co. windows, assembled in off-duty time by Penney salesgirls.

Center of the attraction is a revolving circular platform, on which a replica of the city in 1836 has been fashioned from paper and paste.

The replica of the town contains authentic reality, with the spired courthouse standing in the center, circumscribed by buildings and the eight roads which led to it.

The replica town was made from a drawing by Mr. G. E. Wittich, which also is displayed in the window.

* * *

HOUSES IN the old "circle" are tagged, and can be identified by an accompanying placard. Houses surrounding the court house in the display include county offices, Diffenderfer's grocery, Dr. Luckey's office, Hurst store, Westehaver's grocery, Rodger's store, Morgan's tavern, Old's drugstore and Gossler's tavern.

In addition to the display picturing a replica of early Circleville, a large poster giving "facts about Circleville in 1836" is mounted on the wall, and below that is another poster giving a description of the various stores and occupations at the time.

Other Penney showwindow contains a detailed replica of Gold Cliff Chateau, amusement park located four miles South of Circleville.

The Gold Cliff display has been laid out in such authentic detail that all buildings in the park, from bath house to skating rink, cabins and shelter house, have been included.

Pumpkins flank exhibits in both windows.

Electric Shock Fatal To Worker

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 21 — An accidental verdict was returned today in the electrocution death of Cecil S. Glaser, of Dayton.

Glaser, whose age was unknown, was erecting a boom in preparation for the drilling of a well in Donnelsville. Coroner Austin Richards said the boom came in contact with a high tension wire, containing 12,000 volts.
